THE TEMPLE DRAMATISTS
Marlowe's EDWARD THE SECOND

The text of this edition follows substantially the Second Quarto (1598). The variant readings of the three Quartos of 1598, 1612, and 1622 are recorded by Dyce and Mr. Bullen. Of the copy of the Quarto of 1594 in the royal library at Cassel no collation (I believe) has been published.

'The reluctant pangs of abdicating Royalty in Edward furnished hints which Shakespeare scarcely improved in his Richard the Second ; and the death-scene of Marlowe's King moves pity and terror beyond any scene, ancient or modern, with which I am acquainted.'

PREFACE

Early Editions. A Quarto Edition of the play appeared in 1594; other Quartos followed in 1598, 1612, and 1622 respectively.

Till twenty years ago the Quarto of 1598 was believed to be the earliest issue, and it has been made the basis of the text of Edward II. in all the standard editions of Marlowe's works. In 1876, however, a unique copy of the previously unknown Quarto of 1594 came to light in the royal library at Cassel; perhaps it had found its way thither through 'the English Comedians' who travelled in Germany at the end of the sixteenth and beginning of the seventeenth centuries, playing in the chief towns and at the various courts. Of this first Quarto there is no reprint, nor, so far as I am aware, has any collation of its text with the later Quartos ever been published. But inasmuch as the variations between the three later Quartos are comparatively slight, we may fairly assume that the play was printed with considerable accuracy in the first instance, and that, therefore, the Quarto of 1594 differs but little from its successors.<sup>1</sup> Its title-page runs as follows:

'The troublesome raigne and lamentable death of Edward the second, King of England: with the tragicall fall of proud Mortimer. As it was sundrie times publicly acted in the honourable citie of London, by the right honourable the Earl of Pembroke his servants. Written by Chri. Marlow Gent. Imprinted at London for William Jones, dwelling neare Holborne conduit at the Signe of the Gunne, 1594.'

<sup>1</sup> The accuracy of the original editions of Edward II. is peculiarly important from the fact that all Marlowe's other plays have come down to us in a more or less disputable state. Discerning criticism were loth to credit him with the buffoonery of the last three Acts of The Jew of Malta

The title-page of the second Quarto has an important addition after the words 'proud Mortimer,' which is repeated in the title-pages of the succeeding Quartos, viz. :

'And also the life and death of Peirs Gaueston, the greates Earle of Cornewall, and mighty favorite of King Edward the second.'

Mr. Fleay notes that Marlowe was fond of long titles to his works (A Biographical Chronicle of the English Drama, 1559-1642, s.v. Marlowe).

Date of Composition. Edward II. was entered in the Register of the Stationers' Company under the date July 6, 1593. There is no specific evidence of the year of its composition, but it is commonly assigned to 1590-91. Marlowe or the farcical interludes of Faustus. The Massacre at Paris is practically a mutilated fragment, and Dido, Queen of Carthage, a joint work of Marlowe and Nash, in which the former's share can seldom be traced with certainty. Even the text of Tamburlaine is not unsuspect, for the preface to the Quarto of 1592 expressly stated that comic stuff had been foisted into the play; and though the publisher took credit for having excised the 'fond and frivolous gestures, digressing, and far unmeet for the matter,' yet it is difficult in reading the piece to resist the impression that he suffered some to remain (cf. Mr. Bullen's Marlowe, vol i. p. 20). We are left with Edward II., which has been justly described as the sole 'unadulterated expression' of Marlowe's dramatic art (cf. Dr. Ward's edition of Faustus, p. 1).

died in 1593, and the characteristics of Edward II. prove it to be one of his last works. We find in it a restraint of style far removed from the rhapsodising 'jades of Asia' vein of Tamburlaine (for which the date 1587 is accepted by most); a coherence of dramatic structure and sustained evolution of plot such as are lacking in Faustus (probable date 1588), which is rather a sequence of striking scenes than a closely developed play. The verse, too, of Edward II. reveals greater mastery over the instrument of expression with which Marlowe had enriched the stage—in particular, the freedom and ease essential to the blank verse of drama, and a more varied rhythm. Hardly, therefore, shall we err if we refer Edward II. to 1590-91, and regard it as the first play of Marlowe's second period, when the 'fine madness' (as Drayton termed it) of his earlier works was disciplined into a sense of proportion and form.

The Sources of the Plot. The sources of Edward II. are threefold—the Chronicles of Fabyan (1516), Stow (1580), and Holinshed (1577). From Fabyan came the 'jig' quoted in the second Act (ii. 188-193), but probably little else; from Stow a few details not mentioned by the other two historians, such as the indignity to which the king is subjected in the fifth Act (iii. 27-36); and from Holinshed the bulk of the material. As Mr. Tancock has shown<sup>1</sup> in an admirable analysis of Marlowe's obligations to these sources, many touches in the play find a parallel in Holinshed, but not in Fabyan or Stow. A signal instance is the story of the king's death, which receives only a brief notice in Fabyan's Chronicle, so that those critics who regarded that Chronicle as Marlowe's main source were fain to admit that for the fifth Act he must have drawn upon some other authority. Verbal resemblances prove how closely the dramatist, like his great successor, studied Holinshed. It is, indeed, a feature of several of Marlowe's plays that they adhere closely to the sources whence they are derived, and are not conspicuous for the display of a highly inventive faculty.

Time of Action. The time of the play's action extends over twenty years, from Edward's accession in 1307, when he at once recalled Gaveston, to his death. It was essential that the disjointed history of so long a period should be handled with considerable freedom, and Marlowe has not scrupled to subordinate historical accuracy to dramatic effect, compressing, omitting, and transposing events in such a way as to develop the central purpose of the tragedy, viz. the representation of Edward's infatuated weakness and incompetence, and their consequences.

Historical Treatment. Thus, to cite a few illustrations of his divergences from history, the Irish difficulties of 1315-1316 and the Scottish inroad of 1318 are spoken of as contemporaneous, and directly associated with Gaveston's evil influence over the king, whereas the favourite was beheaded in 1312; the battle of Bannockburn is antedated with a similar object; Warwick, who died in 1315, is made to take part in the battle of Boroughbridge, and afterwards atone for the execution of Gaveston, so that poetic justice may be satisfied; the young Spencer is represented, with great gain to the continuity of the drama, as succeeding Gaveston immediately in the favour of the king, whereas for several years after Gaveston's death in 1312 he sided with Lancaster's party, was the object of Edward's bitter hostility, and did not change sides till about 1318. Nevertheless, in spite of these and similar inaccuracies (which, after all, are in the main only changes of time or place and do not involve misrepresentation of character), the general impression of Edward and his reign that the piece conveys is no less true than vivid.

Stage-history. Mention is made of Edward II. in Henslowe's Diary, and the title-page of the last Quarto (1622) speaks of it as 'acted by the Queenes Maiesties Seruants,' i.e. Queen Anne's Company of actors, to whom had passed the rights of the original performers, Pembroke's Company. Otherwise, nothing, it would seem, is known with regard to its stage-history, and it thus presents a striking contrast to Faustus and The Jew of Malta, the great popularity of which is attested by contemporary allusions and references, and the comments of later critics like Edward Phillips (in Theatrum Poetarum, 1675) and Langbaine (in Dramatick Poets, 1691). The fact that most of the prominent characters in Edward II. excite little sympathy must, one would think, have told somewhat against it. To the student, however, it is a play of surpassing interest, for its intrinsic merits, its just claim to be the first specimen in our language of true historical drama, and its relation to Richard II.

Edward II. and Richard II. Shakespeare's play was obviously written under the influence of Edward II. The characters of the two kings, which have so many traits in common, are developed through curiously similar situations. The most striking of these is the deposition-scene of either play. Marlowe's scene is much the simpler, and in its simplicity lies surely its greater strength, for utter grief needs no elaborate presentment. To Edward his crown is as his life ; loss of it means the agony which ' kills the heart ' and makes an end—' To wretched men, death is felicity.' We are not made to feel that Richard suffers thus : he can still be eloquent and jest with bitter irony. In the death-scene of his king, Shakespeare was perhaps careful to avoid even the appearance of imitating that which in its way was incomparable ; may be too that he doubted whether the pity and terror of Edward's end did not verge on the repellent horror from which ' gorgeous Tragedy ' must refrain. Looking at the general effect of the two works, I think that where Shakespeare shows the happier dramatic instinct is in depicting to the full Richard's incapacity as a ruler without making him so unadmirable in himself as not to merit sympathy. Marlowe, on the other hand, has reproduced but too faithfully the Edward II. of history, and the fate of his monarch moves only the pity which sheer suffering excites.

Marlowe's Place among the Elizabethan Dramatists.

It would be impossible to say anything new and true on this theme. No subject in the history of Elizabethan literature has been threshed out more thoroughly in recent years. Every one who knows anything about the development of the English drama knows that Marlowe was the pioneer who prepared the way for Shakespeare ; that he formed the romantic type of drama, won with his ' mighty line ' the victory of blank verse over rhyme as the medium of dramatic expression, and in

PREFACE

Edward II. substituted a real dramatisation of history for the formless inconsecutiveness of the Chronicle plays. No doubt, Marlowe's limitations were considerable, and such as would have prevented him becoming a rival of Shakespeare: with all his splendid services to the stage he was more poet than playwright: but in estimating what he did we must ever remember that he was the first to do it, and that his was one of those rare geniuses which really initiate and create.

ACT THE FIRST

SCENE I

A Street in London.

Enter Gaveston, reading a letter.

Gav. 'My father is deceased ! Come Gaveston,
And share the kingdom with thy dearest friend.'
Ah ! words that make me surfeit with delight !
What greater bliss can hap to Gaveston
Than live and be the favourite of a king !
Sweet prince, I come ; these, these thy amorous lines
Might have enforced me to have swum from France,
And, like Leander, gasped upon the sand,
So thou would'st smile, and take me in thine arms.
The sight of London to my exiled eyes 10
Is as Elysium to a new-come soul ;
Not that I love the city, or the men,

But that it harbours him I hold so dear—
The king, upon whose bosom let me die,
And with the world be still at enmity.
What need the arctic people love starlight,
To whom the sun shines both by day and night?
Farewell base stooping to the lordly peers!
My knee shall bow to none but to the king.
As for the multitude, that are but sparks, 20
Raked up in embers of their poverty;—
Tanti; I'll fawn first on the wind
That glanceth at my lips, and flieth away.
But how now, what are these?

Enter three Poor Men.

Men. Such as desire your worship's service.

Gav. What canst thou do?

1st Man. I can ride.

Gav. But I have no horse. What art thou?

2nd Man. A traveller.

Gav. Let me see—thou would'st do well 30
To wait at my trencher and tell me lies at dinnertime;

And as I like your discoursing, I'll have you.

And what art thou?

3rd Man. A soldier, that hath served against the Scot.

Gav. Why, there are hospitals for such as you;

I have no war, and therefore, sir, begone.

Edward the Second

ACT I. SC. I.

3rd Man. Farewell, and perish by a soldier's hand,
That would'st reward them with an hospital.

Gav. Ay, ay, these words of his move me as much
As if a goose would play the porcupine, 40
And dart her plumes, thinking to pierce my breast.
But yet it is no pain to speak men fair ;
I'll flatter these and make them live in hope. [Aside.
You know that I came lately out of France,
And yet I have not viewed my lord the king ;
If I speed well, I'll entertain you all.

All. We thank your worship.

Gav. I have some business. Leave me to myself.

All. We will wait here about the court. [Exeunt.

Gav. Do ; these are not men for me : 50
I must have wanton poets, pleasant wits,
Musicians, that with touching of a string
May draw the pliant king which way I please.
Music and poetry is his delight ;
Therefore I'll have Italian masks by night,
Sweet speeches, comedies, and pleasing shows ;
And in the day, when he shall walk abroad,
Like sylvan nymphs my pages shall be clad ;
My men, like satyrs grazing on the lawns,
Shall with their goat-feet dance the antic hay. 60
Sometime a lovely boy in Dian's shape,
With hair that gilds the water as it glides,
Crownets of pearl about his naked arms,
And in his sportful hands an olive-tree,

To hide those parts which men delight to see,
Shall bathe him in a spring ; and there hard by,
One like Actæon peeping through the grove,
Shall by the angry goddess be transformed,
And running in the likeness of a hart
By yelping hounds pulled down, shall seem to die ;—
Such things as these best please his majesty. 71
Here comes my lord the king, and the nobles
From the parliament. I'll stand aside. [Retires.]

Enter King Edward, Lancaster, the Elder Mortimer, Young Mortimer, Kent, Warwick, Pembroke, and Attendants.

K. Edw. Lancaster !

Lan. My lord.

Gav. That Earl of Lancaster do I abhor. [Aside.]

K. Edw. Will you not grant me this ? In spite of them
I'll have my will ; and these two Mortimers,
That cross me thus, shall know I am displeased.

[Aside.]

E. Mor. If you love us, my lord, hate Gaveston. 80

Gav. That villain Mortimer ! I'll be his death. [Aside.]

Y. Mor. Mine uncle here, this earl, and I myself,
Were sworn to your father at his death,
That he should ne'er return into the realm :
And know, my lord, ere I will break my oath,
This sword of mine, that should offend your foes,
Shall sleep within the scabbard at thy need,

And underneath thy banners march who will,
For Mortimer will hang his armour up.

Gav. Mort Dieu!

[Aside.

K. Edw. Well, Mortimer, I'll make thee rue these words. 91

Beseems it thee to contradict thy king?
Frown'st thou thereat, aspiring Lancaster?
The sword shall plane the furrows of thy brows,
And hew these knees that now are grown so stiff.
I will have Gaveston ; and you shall know
What danger 'tis to stand against your king.

Gav. Well done, Ned !

[Aside.

Lan. My lord, why do you thus incense your peers,
That naturally would love and honour you 100
But for that base and obscure Gaveston?
Four earldoms have I, besides Lancaster—
Derby, Salisbury, Lincoln, Leicester,—
These will I sell, to give my soldiers pay,
Ere Gaveston shall stay within the realm ;
Therefore, if he be come, expel him straight.

Kent. Barons and earls, your pride hath made me
mute ;

But now I'll speak, and to the proof, I hope.
I do remember, in my father's days,
Lord Percy of the north, being highly moved, 110
Braved Moubery in presence of the king ;
For which, had not his highness loved him well,
He should have lost his head ; but with his look

The undaunted spirit of Percy was appeased,
And Mouberry and he were reconciled :
Yet dare you brave the king unto his face.—
Brother, revenge it, and let these their heads
Preach upon poles, for trespass of their tongues.

War. O, our heads !

K. Edw. Ay, yours ; and therefore I would wish you grant— 120

War. Bridle thy anger, gentle Mortimer.

Y. Mor. I cannot, nor I will not ; I must speak.—
Cousin, our hands I hope shall fence our heads,
And strike off his that makes you threaten us.
Come, uncle, let us leave the brain-sick king,
And henceforth parley with our naked swords.

E. Mor. Wiltshire hath men enough to save our heads.

War. All Warwickshire will love him for my sake.

Lan. And northward Gaveston hath many friends.—
Adieu, my lord ; and either change your mind, 130
Or look to see the throne, where you should sit,
To float in blood ; and at thy wanton head,
The glozing head of thy base minion thrown.

[*Exeunt all except King Edward, Kent,
Gaveston and Attendants.*]

K. Edw. I cannot brook these haughty menaces ;
Am I a king, and must be overruled ?—
Brother, display my ensigns in the field ;
I'll bandy with the barons and the earls,
And either die or live with Gaveston.

Edward the Second

ACT I. SC. I.

Gav. I can no longer keep me from my lord.

[Comes forward.]

K. Edw. What, Gaveston ! welcome !—Kiss not my hand— 140

Embrace me, Gaveston, as I do thee.

Why should'st thou kneel ? know'st thou not who I am ?

Thy friend, thyself, another Gaveston !

Not Hylas was more mourned of Hercules,

Than thou hast been of me since thy exile.

Gav. And since I went from hence, no soul in hell
Hath felt more torment than poor Gaveston.

K. Edw. I know it.—Brother, welcome home my friend.

Now let the treacherous Mortimers conspire,

And that high-minded Earl of Lancaster : 150

I have my wish, in that I joy thy sight ;

And sooner shall the sea o'erwhelm my land,

Than bear the ship that shall transport thee hence.

I here create thee Lord High Chamberlain,

Chief Secretary to the state and me,

Earl of Cornwall, King and Lord of Man.

Gav. My Lord, these titles far exceed my worth.

Kent. Brother, the least of these may well suffice

For one of greater birth than Gaveston.

K. Edw. Cease, brother : for I cannot brook these words. 160

Thy worth, sweet friend, is far above my gifts,

Therefore, to equal it, receive my heart ;

If for these dignities thou be envied,
I'll give thee more ; for, but to honour thee,
Is Edward pleased with kingly regiment.
Fear'st thou thy person ? thou shalt have a guard :
Wantest thou gold ? go to my treasury :
Wouldst thou be loved and feared ? receive my seal ;

Save or condemn, and in our name command
Whatso thy mind affects, or fancy likes.

Gav. It shall suffice me to enjoy your love,
Which whiles I have, I think myself as great
As Cæsar riding in the Roman street,
With captive kings at his triumphant car.

Enter the Bishop of Coventry.

K. Edw. Whither goes my lord of Coventry so fast ?

B. of Cov. To celebrate your father's exequies.

But is that wicked Gaveston returned ?

K. Edw. Ay, priest, and lives to be revenged on thee,
That wert the only cause of his exile.

Gav. 'Tis true ; and but for reverence of these robes, 180 Thou should'st not plod one foot beyond this place.

B. of Cov. I did no more than I was bound to do ;
And, Gaveston, unless thou be reclaimed,
As then I did incense the parliament,
So will I now, and thou shalt back to France.

Edward the Second

ACT I. SC. I.

Gav. Saving your reverence, you must pardon me.

K. Edw. Throw off his golden mitre, rend his stole,
And in the channel christen him anew.

Kent. Ah, brother, lay not violent hands on him !

For he'll complain unto the see of Rome. 190

Gav. Let him complain unto the see of hell ;

I'll be revenged on him for my exile.

K. Edw. No, spare his life, but seize upon his goods :

Be thou lord bishop and receive his rents,

And make him serve thee as thy chaplain :

I give him thee—here, use him as thou wilt.

Gav. He shall to prison, and there die in bolts.

K. Edw. Ay, to the Tower, the Fleet, or where thou wilt.

B. of Cov. For this offence, be thou accurst of God !

K. Edw. Who's there? Convey this priest to the Tower.

B. of Cov. True, true. 201

K. Edw. But in the meantime, Gaveston, away,

And take possession of his house and goods.

Come, follow me, and thou shalt have my guard

To see it done, and bring thee safe again.

Gav. What should a priest do with so fair a house?

A prison may best beseem his holiness. [Exeunt.]

SCENE II

Westminster.

*Enter on one side the two Mortimers; on the other,
Warwick and Lancaster.*

War. 'Tis true, the bishop is in the Tower,
And goods and body given to Gaveston.

Lan. What! will they tyrannise upon the church?
Ah, wicked king! accursèd Gaveston!
This ground, which is corrupted with their steps,
Shall be their timeless sepulchre or mine.

Y. Mor. Well, let that peevish Frenchman guard him sure;

Unless his breast be sword-proof he shall die.

E. Mor. How now! why droops the Earl of Lancaster?

Y. Mor. Wherefore is Guy of Warwick discontent? 10

Lan. That villain Gaveston is made an earl.

E. Mor. An earl!

War. Ay, and besides Lord Chamberlain of the realm,
And Secretary too, and Lord of Man.

E. Mor. We may not, nor we will not suffer this.

Y. Mor. Why post we not from hence to levy men?

Lan. 'My Lord of Cornwall,' now at every word!

And happy is the man whom he vouchsafes,
For vailing of his bonnet, one good look.

Thus, arm in arm, the king and he doth march: 20

Nay more, the guard upon his lordship waits ;
And all the court begins to flatter him.

War. Thus leaning on the shoulder of the king,
He nods and scorns and smiles at those that pass.

E. Mor. Doth no man take exceptions at the slave ?

Lan. All stomach him, but none dare speak a word.

Y. Mor. Ah, that bewrays their baseness, Lancaster !

Were all the earls and barons of my mind,
We'd hale him from the bosom of the king,
And at the court-gate hang the peasant up, 30
Who, swoln with venom of ambitious pride,
Will be the ruin of the realm and us.

War. Here comes my lord of Canterbury's grace.

Lan. His countenance bewrays he is displeased.

Enter the Archbishop of Canterbury and an Attendant.

A. of Cant. First were his sacred garments rent and torn,

Then laid they violent hands upon him ; next
Himself imprisoned, and his goods asseized :
This certify the Pope ;—away, take horse.

[Exit Attendant.]

Lan. My lord, will you take arms against the king ?

A. of Cant. What need I ? God himself is up in arms, 40
When violence is offered to the church.

Y. Mor. Then will you join with us, that be his peers,
To banish or behead that Gaveston ?

A. of Cant. What else, my lords? for it concerns me near ;—

The bishopric of Coventry is his.

Enter Queen Isabella.

Y. Mor. Madam, whither walks your majesty so fast?

Q. Isab. Unto the forest, gentle Mortimer,
To live in grief and baleful discontent ;
For now, my lord, the king regards me not,
But doats upon the love of Gaveston. 50
He claps his cheeks, and hangs about his neck,
Smiles in his face, and whispers in his ears ;
And when I come he frowns, as who should say,
'Go whither thou wilt, seeing I have Gaveston.'

E. Mor. Is it not strange that he is thus bewitched?

Y. Mor. Madam, return unto the court again :
That sly inveigling Frenchman we'll exile,
Or lose our lives ; and yet, ere that day come,
The king shall lose his crown ; for we have power,
And courage too, to be revenged at full. 60

Q. Isab. But yet lift not your swords against the king.

Lan. No ; but we will lift Gaveston from hence.

War. And war must be the means, or he'll stay still.

Q. Isab. Then let him stay ; for rather than my lord
Shall be oppressed with civil mutinies,
I will endure a melancholy life,
And let him frolic with his minion.

A. of Cant. My lords, to ease all this, but hear me speak :—

We and the rest, that are his counsellors,
Will meet, and with a general consent 70
Confirm his banishment with our hands and seals.

Lan. What we confirm the king will frustrate.

Y. Mor. Then may we lawfully revolt from him.

War. But say, my lord, where shall this meeting be

A. of Cant. At the New Temple.

Y. Mor. Content.

A. of Cant. And, in the meantime, I'll entreat you all
To cross to Lambeth, and there stay with me.

Lan. Come then, let's away.

Y. Mor. Madam, farewell ! 80

Q. Isab. Farewell, sweet Mortimer ; and for my sake,
Forbear to levy arms against the king.

Y. Mor. Ay, if words will serve ; if not, I must.

[Exeunt.

SCENE III

A Street in London.

Enter Gaveston and Kent.

Gav. Edmund, the mighty Prince of Lancaster,
That hath more earldoms than an ass can bear,
And both the Mortimers, two goodly men,
With Guy of Warwick, that redoubted knight,
Are gone toward Lambeth—

Kent. There let them remain.

[Exeunt.

SCENE IV

The New Temple.

Enter Lancaster, Warwick, Pembroke, the Elder Mortimer, Young Mortimer, the Archbishop of Canterbury and Attendants.

Lan. Here is the form of Gaveston's exile :

May it please your lordship to subscribe your name.

A. of Cant. Give me the paper.

[He subscribes, as do the others after him.]

Lan. Quick, quick, my lord ; I long to write my name.

War. But I long more to see him banished hence.

Y. Mor. The name of Mortimer shall fright the king,
Unless he be declined from that base peasant.

Enter King Edward, Gaveston, and Kent.

K. Edw. What, are you moved that Gaveston sits here?

It is our pleasure ; we will have it so.

Lan. Your grace doth well to place him by your side, for

For nowhere else the new earl is so safe.

E. Mor. What man of noble birth can brook this sight?

Quam male conveniunt !

See what a scornful look the peasant casts!

Pem. Can kingly lions fawn on creeping ants?

War. Ignoble vassal, that like Phaeton

Aspir'st unto the guidance of the sun!

Edward the Second

ACT I. SC. 4.

Y. Mor. Their downfall is at hand, their forces down :

We will not thus be faced and over-peered.

K. Edw. Lay hands on that traitor Mortimer! 20

E. Mor. Lay hands on that traitor Gaveston!

Kent. Is this the duty that you owe your king ?

War. We know our duties—let him know his peers.

K. Edw. Whither will you bear him? Stay, or ye shall die.

E. Mor. We are no traitors ; therefore threaten not.

Gav. No, threaten not, my lord, but pay them home!

Were I a king——

Y. Mor. Thou villain, wherefore talk'st thou of a king,
That hardly art a gentleman by birth ?

K. Edw. Were he a peasant, being my minion, 30
I'll make the proudest of you stoop to him.

Lan. My lord, you may not thus disparage us.—
Away, I say, with hateful Gaveston!

E. Mor. And with the Earl of Kent that favours him.

[Attendants remove Kent and Gaveston.]

K. Edw. Nay, then, lay violent hands upon your king,
Here, Mortimer, sit thou in Edward's throne :
Warwick and Lancaster, wear you my crown :
Was ever king thus over-ruled as I ?

Lan. Learn then to rule us better, and the realm.

Y. Mor. What we have done, our heart-blood shall maintain. 40

War. Think you that we can brook this upstart's pride ?

K. Edw. Anger and wrathful fury stops my speech.

A. of Cant. Why are you moved? be patient, my lord,
And see what we your counsellors have done.

Y. Mor. My lords, now let us all be resolute,
And either have our wills, or lose our lives.

K. Edw. Meet you for this, proud overbearing peers?
Ere my sweet Gaveston shall part from me,
This isle shall fleet upon the ocean,
And wander to the unfrequented Inde. 50

A. of Cant. You know that I am legate to the Pope;
On your allegiance to the see of Rome,
Subscribe, as we have done, to his exile.

Y. Mor. Curse him, if he refuse; and then may we Depose him and elect another king.

K. Edw. Ay, there it goes! but yet I will not yield:
Curse me, depose me, do the worst you can.

Lan. Then linger not, my lord, but do it straight.

A. of Cant. Remember how the bishop was abused!
Either banish him that was the cause thereof, 60
Or I will presently discharge these lords
Of duty and allegiance due to thee.

K. Edw. It boots me not to threat—I must speak fair:
The legate of the Pope will be obeyed. [Aside.
My lord, you shall be Chancellor of the realm;
Thou, Lancaster, High Admiral of our fleet;
Young Mortimer and his uncle shall be earls;
And you, Lord Warwick, President of the North;
And thou of Wales. If this content you not,
Make several kingdoms of this monarchv. 70

Edward the Second

ACT I. SC. 4.

And share it equally amongst you all,
So I may have some nook or corner left,
To frolic with my dearest Gaveston.

A. of Cant. Nothing shall alter us—we are resolved.

Lan. Come, come, subscribe.

Y. Mor. Why should you love him whom the world hates so?

K. Edw. Because he loves me more than all the world.

Ah, none but rude and savage-minded men

Would seek the ruin of my Gaveston ;

You that be noble-born should pity him. 80

War. You that are princely-born should shake him off :

For shame subscribe, and let the lown depart.

E. Mor. Urge him, my lord.

A. of Cant. Are you content to banish him the realm?

K. Edw. I see I must, and therefore am content :

Instead of ink I'll write it with my tears.

[Subscribes.

Y. Mor. The king is love-sick for his minion.

K. Edw. 'Tis done—and now, accursèd hand, fall off !

Lan. Give it me—I'll have it published in the streets.

Y. Mor. I'll see him presently despatched away. 90

A. of Cant. Now is my heart at ease.

War. And so is mine.

Pem. This will be good news to the common sort.

E. Mor. Be it or no, he shall not linger here.

[Exeunt all except King Edward.

K. Edw. How fast they run to banish him I love !

They would not stir, were it to do me good.

Why should a king be subject to a priest ?

> Proud Rome ! that hatchest such imperial grooms,
For these thy superstitious taper-lights,
Wherewith thy antichristian churches blaze,
I'll fire thy crazèd buildings, and enforce 100
The papal towers to kiss the lowly ground !
With slaughtered priests make Tiber's channel swell,

And banks raised higher with their sepulchres !

As for the peers, that back the clergy thus,

If I be king, not one of them shall live.

Re-enter Gaveston.

Gav. My lord, I hear it whispered everywhere,
That I am banished, and must fly the land.

K. Edw. 'Tis true, sweet Gaveston—O ! were it false !
The legate of the Pope will have it so,
And thou must hence, or I shall be deposed. 110
But I will reign to be revenged of them ;
And therefore, sweet friend, take it patiently.
Live where thou wilt, I'll send thee gold enough ;
And long thou shalt not stay, or if thou dost,
I'll come to thee ; my love shall ne'er decline.

Gav. Is all my hope turned to this hell of grief ?

K. Edw. Rend not my heart with thy too-piercing words :
Thou from this land, I from myself am banished.

Edward the Second

ACT I. SC. 4.

Gav. To go from hence grieves not poor Gaveston ;
But to forsake you, in whose gracious looks 120
The blessedness of Gaveston remains :
For nowhere else seeks he felicity.

K. Edw. And only this torments my wretched soul
That, whether I will or no, thou must depart.
Be governor of Ireland in my stead,
And there abide till fortune call thee home.
Here take my picture, and let me wear thine ;

[They exchange pictures.]

O, might I keep thee here as I do this,
Happy were I ! but now most miserable !-

Gav. 'Tis something to be pitied of a king. 130

K. Edw. Thou shalt not hence—I'll hide thee, Gaveston.

Gav. I shall be found, and then 'twill grieve me more.

K. Edw. Kind words and mutual talk makes our grief greater :

Therefore, with dumb embracement, let us part—
Stay, Gaveston, I cannot leave thee thus.

Gav. For every look, my lord, drops down a tear :
Seeing I must go, do not renew my sorrow.

K. Edw. The time is little that thou hast to stay,
And, therefore, give me leave to look my fill :
But come, sweet friend, I'll bear thee on thy way. 140

Gav. The peers will frown.

K. Edw. I pass not for their anger—Come, let's go
O that we might as well return as go.

Enter Queen Isabella.

Q. Isab. Whither goes my lord?

K. Edw. Fawn not on me, French strumpet! get thee gone!

Q. Isab. On whom but on my husband should I fawn?

Gav. On Mortimer! with whom, ungentle queen—
I say no more—judge you the rest, my lord.

Q. Isab. In saying this, thou wrong'st me, Gaveston;
Is't not enough that thou corrupt'st my lord, 150
And art a bawd to his affections,
But thou must call mine honour thus in question?

Gav. I mean not so; your grace must pardon me.

K. Edw. Thou art too familiar with that Mortimer,
And by thy means is Gaveston exiled;
But I would wish thee reconcile the lords,
Or thou shalt ne'er be reconciled to me.

Q. Isab. Your highness knows it lies not in my power.

K. Edw. Away then! touch me not—Come, Gaveston.

Q. Isab. Villain! 'tis thou that robb'st me of my lord. 160

Gav. Madam, 'tis you that rob me of my lord.

K. Edw. Speak not unto her; let her droop and pine.

Q. Isab. Wherein, my lord, have I deserved these words?

Witness the tears that Isabella sheds,
Witness this heart, that, sighing for thee, breaks,
How dear my lord is to poor Isabel.

Edward the Second

ACT I. SC. 4.

K. Edw. And witness Heaven how dear thou art to me :
There weep : for till my Gaveston be repealed,
Assure thyself thou com'st not in my sight.

[Exeunt Edward and Gaveston.]

Q. Isab. O miserable and distressèd queen ! 170
Would, when I left sweet France and was embarked,
That charming Circe, walking on the waves,
Had changed my shape, or at the marriage-day
The cup of Hymen had been full of poison,
Or with those arms that twined about my neck
I had been stifled, and not lived to see
The king my lord thus to abandon me ! -
Like frantic Juno will I fill the earth
With ghastly murmur of my sighs and cries ;
For never doated Jove on Ganymede 180
So much as he on cursèd Gaveston :
But that will more exasperate his wrath ; -
I must entreat him, I must speak him fair ;
And be a means to call home Gaveston :
And yet he'll ever doat on Gaveston ; -
And so am I for ever miserable.

Re-enter Lancaster, Warwick, Pembroke, the Elder Mortimer, and Young Mortimer.

Lan. Look where the sister of the King of France
Sits wringing of her hands, and beats her breast !
War. The king, I fear, hath ill-entreated her.

Pem. Hard is the heart that injuries such a saint. 190

Y. Mor. I know 'tis 'long of Gaveston she weeps.

E. Mor. Why, he is gone.

Y. Mor. Madam, how fares your grace ?

Q. Isab. Ah, Mortimer ! now breaks the king's hate forth,

And he confesseth that he loves me not.

Y. Mor. Cry quittance, madam, then ; and love not him.

Q. Isab. No, rather will I die a thousand deaths :

And yet I love in vain ;—he'll ne'er love me.

Lan. Fear ye not, madam ; now his minion's gone,

His wanton humour will be quickly left.

Q. Isab. O never, Lancaster ! I am enjoined 200

To sue upon you all for his repeal ;

This wills my lord, and this must I perform,

Or else be banished from his highness' presence.

Lan. For his repeal, madam ! he comes not back,

Unless the sea cast up his shipwrecked body.

War. And to behold so sweet a sight as that,

There's none here but would run his horse to death.

Y. Mor. But, madam, would you have us call him home ?

Q. Isab. Ay, Mortimer, for till he be restored,

The angry king hath banished me the court ; 210

And therefore, as thou lov'st and tender'st me,

Be thou my advocate unto these peers.

Y. Mor. What ! would you have me plead for Gaveston ?

Edward the Second

ACT I. SC. 4.

E. Mor. Plead for him that will, I am resolved.

Lan. And so am I, my lord : dissuade the queen. L

Q. Isab. O Lancaster ! let him dissuade the king,

For 'tis against my will he should return.

War. Then speak not for him, let the peasant go.

Q. Isab. 'Tis for myself I speak, and not for him.

Pem. No speaking will prevail, and therefore cease. 220

Y. Mor. Fair queen, forbear to angle for the fish

Which, being caught, strikes him that takes it dead ;

I mean that vile torpedo, Gaveston,

That now, I hope, floats on the Irish seas.

Q. Isab. Sweet Mortimer, sit down by me awhile,

And I will tell thee reasons of such weight

As thou wilt soon subscribe to his repeal.

Y. Mor. It is impossible ; but speak your mind.

Q. Isab. Then thus, but none shall hear it but ourselves.

[Talks to Young Mortimer apart.]

Lan. My lords, albeit the queen win Mortimer, 230

Will you be resolute, and hold with me ?

E. Mor. Not I, against my nephew.

Pem. Fear not, the queen's words cannot alter him.

War. No ? do but mark how earnestly she pleads !

Lan. And see how coldly his looks make denial.

War. She smiles ; now for my life his mind is changed

Lan. I'll rather lose his friendship, I, than grant.

Y. Mor. Well, of necessity it must be so.

My lords, that I abhor base Gaveston,

I hope your honours make no question, 240

And therefore, though I plead for his repeal,

'Tis not for his sake, but for our avail;

Nay for the realm's behoof, and for the king's.

Lan. Fie, Mortimer, dishonour not thyself!

Can this be true, 'twas good to banish him?

And is this true, to call him home again?

Such reasons make white black, and dark night day.

Y. Mor. My lord of Lancaster, mark the respect.

Lan. In no respect can contraries be true.

Q. Isab. Yet, good my lord, hear what he can allege. 250

War. All that he speaks is nothing; we are resolved.

Y. Mor. Do you not wish that Gaveston were dead?

Pem. I would he were!

Y. Mor. Why then, my lord, give me but leave to speak.

E. Mor. But, nephew, do not play the sophister.

Y. Mor. This which I urge is of a burning zeal

To mend the king, and do our country good.

Know you not Gaveston hath store of gold,

Which may in Ireland purchase him such friends

As he will front the mightiest of us all? 260

And whereas he shall live and be beloved,

'Tis hard for us to work his overthrow.

War. Mark you but that, my lord of Lancaster.

Y. Mor. But were he here, detested as he is,

How easily might some base slave be suborned

To greet his lordship with a poniard,

Edward the Second

ACT I. SC. 4.

And none so much as blame the murderer,
But rather praise him for that brave attempt,
And in the chronicle enrol his name
For purging of the realm of such a plague ! 270

Pem. He saith true.

Lan. Ay, but how chance this was not done before ?

Y. Mor. Because, my lords, it was not thought upon.

Nay, more, when he shall know it lies in us
To banish him and then to call him home,
'Twill make him vail the top-flag of his pride,
And fear to offend the meanest nobleman.

E. Mor. But how if he do not, nephew ?

Y. Mor. Then may we with some colour rise in arms ;
For howsoever we have borne it out, 280
'Tis treason to be up against the king ;
So we shall have the people of our side,
Which for his father's sake lean to the king,
But cannot brook a night-grown mushroom,
Such a one as my lord of Cornwall is,
Should bear us down of the nobility.
And when the commons and the nobles join,
'Tis not the king can buckler Gaveston ;
We'll pull him from the strongest hold he hath.
My lords, if to perform this I be slack, 290
Think me as base a groom as Gaveston.

Lan. On that condition, Lancaster will grant.

Pem. And so will Pembroke.

War. And I.

E. Mor. And I.

Y. Mor. In this I count me highly gratified,
And Mortimer will rest at your command.

Q. Isab. And when this favour Isabel forgets,
Then let her live abandoned and forlorn.—
But see, in happy time, my lord the king, 300
Having brought the Earl of Cornwall on his way,
Is new returned ; this news will glad him much ;
Yet not so much as me ; I love him more
Than he can Gaveston ; would he love me
But half so much, then were I treble-blessed !

Re-enter King Edward, mourning.

K. Edw. He's gone, and for his absence thus I mourn.
Did never sorrow go so near my heart
As doth the want of my sweet Gaveston ;
And could my crown's revenue bring him back,
I would freely give it to his enemies, 310
And think I gained, having bought so dear a friend.

Q. Isab. Hark ! how he harps upon his minion.

K. Edw. My heart is as an anvil unto sorrow,
Which beats upon it like the Cyclops' hammers,
And with the noise turns up my giddy brain,
And makes me frantic for my Gaveston.
Ah ! had some bloodless Fury rose from hell,
And with my kingly sceptre struck me dead,
When I was forced to leave my Gaveston !

Edward the Second

ACT I. SC. 4.

Lan. Diablo! What passions call you these? 320

Q. Isab. My gracious lord, I come to bring you news.

K. Edw. That you have parled with your Mortimer!

Q. Isab. That Gaveston, my lord, shall be repealed.

K. Edw. Repealed! the news is too sweet to be true?

Q. Isab. But will you love me, if you find it so?

K. Edw. If it be so, what will not Edward do?

Q. Isab. For Gaveston, but not for Isabel.

K. Edw. For thee, fair queen, if thou lov'st Gaveston;

I'll hang a golden tongue about thy neck,

Seeing thou hast pleaded with so good success. 330

Q. Isab. No other jewels hang about my neck

Than these, my lord; nor let me have more wealth

Than I may fetch from this rich treasury—

O how a kiss revives poor Isabel!

K. Edw. Once more receive my hand; and let this be

A second marriage 'twixt thyself and me.

Q. Isab. And may it prove more happy than the first!

My gentle lord, bespeak these nobles fair,

That wait attendance for a gracious look,

And on their knees salute your majesty. 340

K. Edw. Courageous Lancaster, embrace thy king!

And, as gross vapours perish by the sun,

Even so let hatred with thy sovereign's smile.

Live thou with me as my companion.

Lan. This salutation overjoys my heart.

K. Edw. Warwick shall be my chiefest counsellor:

These silver hairs will more adorn my court

Than gaudy silks, or rich embroidery.

Chide me, sweet Warwick, if I go astray.

War. Slay me, my lord, when I offend your grace. 350

K. Edw. In solemn triumphs, and in public shows, Pembroke shall bear the sword before the king.

Pem. And with this sword Pembroke will fight for you.

K. Edw. But wherefore walks young Mortimer aside?

Be thou commander of our royal fleet ;

Or, if that lofty office like thee not,

I make thee here Lord Marshal of the realm.

Y. Mor. My lord, I'll marshal so your enemies,
As England shall be quiet, and you safe.

K. Edw. And as for you, Lord Mortimer of Chirke, 360
Whose great achievements in our foreign war
Deserves no common place, nor mean reward ;
Be you the general of the levied troops,
That now are ready to assail the Scots.

E. Mor. In this your grace hath highly honoured me,
For with my nature war doth best agree.

Q. Isab. Now is the King of England rich and strong,
Having the love of his renownèd peers.

K. Edw. Ay, Isabel, ne'er was my heart so light.
Clerk of the crown, direct our warrant forth 370
For Gaveston to Ireland :

Enter Beaumont with warrant.

Beaumont, fly

As fast as Iris or Jove's Mercury.

Bea. It shall be done, my gracious lord. [Exit.

K. Edw. Lord Mortimer, we leave you to your charge.

Now let us in, and feast it royally.

Against our friend the Earl of Cornwall comes,

We'll have a general tilt and tournament ;

And then his marriage shall be solemnised.

For wot you not that I have made him sure

Unto our cousin, the Earl of Gloucester's heir ? 380

Lan. Such news we hear, my lord.

K. Edw. That day, if not for him, yet for my sake,

Who in the triumph will be challenger,

Spare for no cost ; we will requite your love.

War. In this or aught your highness shall command us.

K. Edw. Thanks, gentle Warwick : come, let's in and revel. [Exeunt all except the Mortimers.

E. Mor. Nephew, I must to Scotland ; thou stayest here.

Leave now t'oppose thyself against the king.

Thou seest by nature he is mild and calm,

And, seeing his mind so doats on Gaveston, 390

Let him without controulment have his will.

The mightiest kings have had their minions :

Great Alexander loved Hephestion ;

The conquering Hercules for Hylas wept ;

And for Patroclus stern Achilles drooped.

And not kings only, but the wisest men :

The Roman Tully loved Octavius ;

Grave Socrates, wild Alcibiades.

Then let his grace, whose youth is flexible,
And promiseth as much as we can wish, 400
Freely enjoy that vain, lighted-headed earl ;
For riper years will wean him from such toys.

Y. Mor. Uncle, his wanton humour grieves not me ;
But this I scorn, that one so basely born
Should by his sovereign's favour grow so pert,
And riot it with the treasure of the realm.
While soldiers mutiny for want of pay,
He wears a lord's revenue on his back,
And, Midas-like, he jets it in the court,
With base outlandish cullions at his heels, 410
Whose proud fantastic liveries make such show,
As if that Proteus, god of shapes, appeared.
I have not seen a dapper Jack so brisk ;
He wears a short Italian hooded cloak,
Larded with pearl, and, in his Tuscan cap,
A jewel of more value than the crown.
While other walk below, the king and he
From out a window laugh at such as we,
And flout our train, and jest at our attire.
Uncle, 'tis this makes me impatient. 420

E. Mor. But, nephew, now you see the king is changed.

Y. Mor. Then so am I, and live to do him service :
But whiles I have a sword, a hand, a heart,
I will not yield to any such upstart.
You know my mind ; come, uncle, let's away.

[Exeunt.

ACT THE SECOND

SCENE I

A hall in Gloucester's house.

Enter Young Spencer and Baldock.

Bald. Spencer,

Seeing that our lord the Earl of Gloucester's dead,
Which of the nobles dost thou mean to serve?

Y. Spen. Not Mortimer, nor any of his side ;

Because the king and he are enemies.

Baldock, learn this of me, a factious lord

Shall hardly do himself good, much less us ;

But he that hath the favour of a king,

May with one word advance us while we live :

The liberal Earl of Cornwall is the man 10

On whose good fortune Spencer's hope depends.

Bald. What, mean you then to be his follower?

Y. Spen. No, his companion ; for he loves me well,

And would have once preferred me to the king.

Bald. But he is banished ; there's small hope of him.

Y. Spen. Ay, for a while ; but, Baldock, mark the end.

A friend of mine told me in secrecy
That he's repealed, and sent for back again ;
And even now a post came from the court
With letters to our lady from the king ; 20
And as she read she smiled, which makes me think
It is about her lover Gaveston.

Bald. 'Tis like enough ; for since he was exiled
She neither walks abroad, nor comes in sight.
But I had thought the match had been broke off,
And that his banishment had changed her mind.

Y. Spen. Our lady's first love is not wavering ;
My life for thine she will have Gaveston.

Bald. Then hope I by her means to be preferred,
Having read unto her since she was a child. 30

Y. Spen. Then, Baldock, you must cast the scholar off,
And learn to court it like a gentleman.
'Tis not a black coat and a little band,
A velvet-caped coat, faced before with serge,
And smelling to a nosegay all the day,
Or holding of a napkin in your hand,
Or saying a long grace at a table's end,
Or making low legs to a nobleman,
Or looking downward with your eyelids close,
And saying, 'Truly, an't may please your honour,' 40
Can get you any favour with great men ;
You must be proud, bold, pleasant, resolute,
And now and then stab, as occasion serves.

Bald. Spencer, thou know'st I hate such formal toys,

And use them but of mere hypocrisy.
Mine old lord whiles he lived was so precise,
That he would take exceptions at my buttons,
And being like pin's heads, blame me for the big-ness ;

Which made me curate-like in my attire,
Though inwardly licentious enough, 50
And apt for any kind of villainy.
I am none of these common pedants, I,
That cannot speak without propterea quod.

Y. Spen. But one of those that saith, quandoquidem,
And hath a special gift to form a verb.

Bald. Leave off this jesting, here my lady comes.

Enter King Edward's Niece.

Niece. The grief for his exile was not so much,
As is the joy of his returning home.
This letter came from my sweet Gaveston :
What need'st thou, love, thus to excuse thyself? 60
I know thou could'st not come and visit me :
[Reads.] 'I will not long be from thee, though I die.'

This argues the entire love of my lord ;
[Reads.] 'When I forsake thee, death seize on my heart' :

But stay thee here where Gaveston shall sleep.

[Puts the letter into her bosom.]

Now to the letter of my lord the king.—

He wills me to repair unto the court,
And meet my Gaveston? why do I stay,
Seeing that he talks thus of my marriage-day?
Who's there? Baldock!

70

See that my coach be ready, I must hence.

Bald. It shall be done, madam.

Niece. And meet me at the park-pale presently.

[Exit Baldock.]

Spencer, stay you and bear me company,
For I have joyful news to tell thee of;
My lord of Cornwall is a-coming over,
And will be at the court as soon as we.

Y. Spen. I knew the king would have him home again.

Niece. If all things sort out as I hope they will,

Thy service, Spencer, shall be thought upon. 80

Y. Spen. I humbly thank your ladyship.

Niece. Come, lead the way; I long till I am there.

[Exeunt.]

SCENE II

Before Tynemouth Castle.

Enter King Edward, Queen Isabella, Kent, Lancaster, Young Mortimer, Warwick, Pembroke, and Attendants.

K. Edw. The wind is good, I wonder why he stays;
I fear me he is wrecked upon the sea.

Edward the Second

ACT II. SC. 2.

Q. Isab. Look, Lancaster, how passionate he is,
And still his mind runs on his minion !

Lan. My lord,—

K. Edw. How now ! what news ? is Gaveston arrived ?

Y. Mor. Nothing but Gaveston ! what means your grace ?
You have matters of more weight to think upon ;
The King of France sets foot in Normandy.

K. Edw. A trifle ! we'll expel him when we please. 10
But tell me, Mortimer, what's thy device
Against the stately triumph we decreed ?

Y. Mor. A homely one, my lord, not worth the telling.

K. Edw. Pray thee let me know it.

Y. Mor. But, seeing you are so desirous, thus it is :
A lofty cedar-tree, fair flourishing,
On whose top-branches kingly eagles perch,
And by the bark a canker creeps me up,
And gets into the highest bough of all :
The motto, Æque tandem. 20

K. Edw. And what is yours, my lord of Lancaster ?

Lan. My lord, mine's more obscure than Mortimer's.
Pliny reports there is a flying fish
Which all the other fishes deadly hate,
And therefore, being pursued, it takes the air :
No sooner is it up, but there's a fowl
That seizeth it ; this fish, my lord, I bear,
The motto this : Undique mors est.

Kent. Proud Mortimer ! ungentle Lancaster !
Is this the love you bear your sovereign ? 30

Is this the fruit your reconciliation bears?
Can you in words make show of amity,
And in your shields display your rancorous minds!
What call you this but private libelling
Against the Earl of Cornwall and my brother?

Q. Isab. Sweet husband, be content, they all love you.

K. Edw. They love me not that hate my Gaveston.

I am that cedar, shake me not too much;
And you the eagles; soar ye ne'er so high,
I have the jesses that will pull you down; 40
And Æque tandem shall that canker cry
Unto the proudest peer of Britainy.

Though thou compar'st him to a flying fish,
And threatenest death whether he rise or fall,
'Tis not the hugest monster of the sea,
Nor foulest harpy that shall swallow him.

Y. Mor. If in his absence thus he favours him,
What will he do whenas he shall be present?

Lan. That shall we see; look where his lordship comes.

Enter Gaveston.

K. Edw. My Gaveston! 50

Welcome to Tynemouth! welcome to thy friend!
Thy absence made me droop and pine away;
For, as the lovers of fair Danae,
When she was locked up in a brazen tower,
Desired her more, and waxed outrageous,
So did it fare with me: and now thy sight

Edward the Second

ACT II. SC. 2.

Is sweeter far than was thy parting hence
Bitter and irksome to my sobbing heart.

Gav. Sweet lord and king, your speech preventeth mine,

Yet have I words left to express my joy : 60
The shepherd nipt with biting winter's rage
Frolics not more to see the painted spring,
Than I do to behold your majesty.

K. Edw. Will none of you salute my Gaveston ?

Lan. Salute him ? yes ; welcome, Lord Chamberlain !

Y. Mor. Welcome is the good Earl of Cornwall !

War. Welcome, Lord Governor of the Isle of Man !

Pem. Welcome, Master Secretary !

Kent. Brother, do you hear them ?

K. Edw. Still will these earls and barons use me thus. 70

Gav. My lord, I cannot brook these injuries.

Q. Isab. Ay me, poor soul, when these begin to jar.

[Aside.

K. Edw. Return it to their throats, I'll be thy warrant.

Gav. Base, leaden earls, that glory in your birth,
Go sit at home and eat your tenant's beef ;
And come not here to scoff at Gaveston,
Whose mounting thoughts did never creep so low
As to bestow a look on such as you.

Lan. Yet I disdain not to do this for you.

[Draws his sword and offers to stab Gaveston.

K. Edw. Treason ! treason ! where's the traitor ? 80

Pem. Here ! here !

K. Edw. Convey hence Gaveston ; they'll murder him.

Gav. The life of thee shall salve this foul disgrace.

Y. Mor. Villain ! thy life, unless I miss mine aim.

[Wounds Gaveston.]

Q. Isab. Ah ! furious Mortimer, what hast thou done ?

Y. Mor. No more than I would answer, were he slain.

[Exeunt Gaveston with Attendants.]

K. Edw. Yes, more than thou canst answer, though he live ;

Dear shall you both abide this riotous deed.

Out of my presence ! come not near the court.

Y. Mor. I'll not be barred the court for Gaveston. 90

Lan. We'll hale him by the ears unto the block.

K. Edw. Look to your own heads ; his is sure enough.

War. Look to your own crown, if you back him thus.

Kent. Warwick, these words do ill beseem thy years.

K. Edw. Nay, all of them conspire to cross me thus ;

But if I live, I'll tread upon their heads

That think with high looks thus to tread me down.

Come, Edmund, let's away and levy men,

'Tis war that must abate these barons' pride.

[Exeunt King Edward, Queen Isabella, and Kent.]

War. Let's to our castles, for the king is moved. 100

Y. Mor. Moved may he be, and perish in his wrath !

Lan. Cousin, it is no dealing with him now,

He means to make us stoop by force of arms ;

Edward the Second

ACT II. SC. 2.

And therefore let us jointly here protest,
To prosecute that Gaveston to the death.

Y. Mor. By heaven, the abject villain shall not live !

War. I'll have his blood, or die in seeking it.

Pem. The like oath Pembroke takes.

Lan. And so doth Lancaster.

Now send our heralds to defy the king ;                      110
And make the people swear to put him down.

Enter a Messenger.

Y. Mor. Letters ! from whence ?

Mess. From Scotland, my lord.

[Giving letters to Mortimer.]

Lan. Why, how now, cousin, how fares all our friends ?

Y. Mor. My uncle's taken prisoner by the Scots.

Lan. We'll have him ransomed, man ; be of good cheer.

Y. Mor. They rate his ransom at five thousand pound.

Who should defray the money but the king,
Seeing he is taken prisoner in his wars ?

I'll to the king.

Lan. Do, cousin, and I'll bear thee company.

War. Meantime, my lord of Pembroke and myself    120
Will to Newcastle here, and gather head.

Y. Mor. About it then, and we will follow you.

Lan. Be resolute and full of secrecy.

War. I warrant you.                      [Exit with Pembroke.]

Y. Mor. Cousin, and if he will not ransom him,

I'll thunder such a peal into his ears,
As never subject did unto his king.

Lan. Content, I'll bear my part—Holla ! who's there?

Enter Guard.

Y. Mor. Ay, marry, such a guard as this doth well.

Lan. Lead on the way.

130

Guard. Whither will your lordships?

Y. Mor. Whither else but to the king.

Guard. His highness is disposed to be alone.

Lan. Why, so he may, but we will speak to him.

Guard. You may not in, my lord.

Y. Mor. May we not?

Enter King Edward and Kent.

K. Edw. How now !

What noise is this ? who have we there, is't you ?

[Going.

Y. Mor. Nay, stay, my lord, I come to bring you news ;
Mine uncle's taken prisoner by the Scots.

140

K. Edw. The ransom him.

Lan. 'Twas in your wars ; you should ransom him.

Y. Mor. And you shall ransom him, or else——

Kent. What ! Mortimer, you will not threaten him ?

K. Edw. Quiet yourself, you shall have the broad seal,
To gather for him throughout the realm.

Lan. Your minion Gaveston hath taught you this.

Y. Mor. My lord, the family of the Mortimers
Are not so poor, but, would they sell their land,

Edward the Second

ACT II. SC. 2.

'Twould levy men enough to anger you. 150

We never beg, but use such prayers as these.

K. Edw. Shall I still be haunted thus ?

Y. Mor. Nay, now you're here alone, I'll speak my mind.

Lan. And so will I, and then, my lord, farewell.

Y. Mor. The idle triumphs, masks, lascivious shows,
And prodigal gifts bestowed on Gaveston,
Have drawn thy treasury dry, and made thee weak ;
The murmuring commons, overstretchèd, break.

Lan. Look for rebellion, look to be deposed ;
Thy garrisons are beaten out of France, 160
And, lame and poor, lie groaning at the gates.
The wild Oneyl, with swarms of Irish kerns,
Lives uncontrolled within the English pale.
Unto the walls of York the Scots make road,
And unresisted drive away rich spoils.

Y. Mor. The haughty Dane commands the narrow seas,
While in the harbour ride thy ships unrigged.

Lan. What foreign prince sends thee ambassadors ?

Y. Mor. Who loves thee, but a sort of flatterers ?

Lan. Thy gentle queen, sole sister to Valois, 170
Complains that thou hast left her all forlorn.

Y. Mor. Thy court is naked, being bereft of those That make a king seem glorious to the world ;
I mean the peers, whom thou should'st dearly love :
Libels are cast again thee in the street :
Ballads and rhymes made of thy overthrow.

Lan. The Northern borderers seeing their houses burnt,

Their wives and children slain, run up and down,
Cursing the name of thee and Gaveston.

Y. Mor. When wert thou in the field with banner spread, 180

But once? and then thy soldiers marched like players,
With garish robes, not armour; and thyself,
Bedaubed with gold, rode laughing at the rest,
Nodding and shaking of thy spangled crest,
Where women's favours hung like labels down.

Lan. And therefore came it, that the fleering Scots,
To England's high disgrace, have made this jig;
'Maids of England, sore may you mourn,—
For your lemans you have lost at Bannocks-bourn,—

With a heave and a ho! 190
What weeneth the King of England,
So soon to have won Scotland?—
With a rombelow!'

Y. Mor. Wigmore shall fly, to set my uncle free.

Lan. And when 'tis gone, our swords shall purchase more.
If ye be moved, revenge it as you can;
Look next to see us with our ensigns spread.

[Exit with Young Mortimer.]

K. Edw. My swelling heart for very anger breaks!
How oft have I been baited by these peers,
And dare not be revenged, for their power is great!
Yet, shall the crowing of these cockerels 201
Affright a lion? Edward, unfold thy paws,

Edward the Second

ACT II. SC. 2.

And let their lives' blood slake thy fury's hunger.
If I be cruel and grow tyrannous,
Now let them thank themselves, and rue too late.

Kent. My lord, I see your love to Gaveston
Will be the ruin of the realm and you,
For now the wrathful nobles threaten wars,
And therefore, brother, banish him for ever.

K. Edw. Art thou an enemy to my Gaveston? 210

Kent. Ay, and it grieves me that I favoured him.

K. Edw. Traitor, begone! whine thou with Mortimer.

Kent. So will I, rather than with Gaveston.

K. Edw. Out of my sight, and trouble me no more!

Kent. No marvel though thou scorn thy noble peers,
When I thy brother am rejected thus.

K. Edw. Away! [Exit Kent.]

Poor Gaveston, that has no friend but me,
Do what they can, we'll live in Tynemouth here,
And, so I walk with him about the walls, 220
What care I though the earls begirt us round?—
Here cometh she that's cause of all these jars.

Enter Queen Isabella with King Edward's Niece, two Ladies, Gaveston, Baldock and Young Spencer.

Q. Isab. My lord, 'tis thought the earls are up in arms.

K. Edw. Ay, and 'tis likewise thought you favour 'em.

Q. Isab. Thus do you still suspect me without cause?

Niece. Sweet uncle! speak more kindly to the queen.

Gav. My lord, dissemble with her, speak her fair.

K. Edw. Pardon me, sweet, I had forgot myself.

Q. Isab. Your pardon is quickly got of Isabel.

K. Edw. The younger Mortimer is grown so brave, 230
That to my face he threatens civil wars.

Gav. Why do you not commit him to the Tower?

K. Edw. I dare not, for the people love him well.

Gav. Why, then we'll have him privily made away.

K. Edw. Would Lancaster and he had both caroused
A bowl of poison to each other's health !
But let them go, and tell me what are these.

Niece. Two of my father's servants whilst he liv'd,— May't please your grace to entertain them now.

K. Edw. Tell me, where wast thou born? what is thine arms? 240

Bald. My name is Baldock, and my gentry
I fetch from Oxford, not from heraldry.

K. Edw. The fitter art thou, Baldock, for my turn.
Wait on me, and I'll see thou shall not want.

Bald. I humbly thank your majesty.

K. Edw. Knowest thou him, Gaveston?

Gav. Ay, my lord ;
His name is Spencer, he is well allied ;
For my sake, let him wait upon your grace ;
Scarce shall you find a man of more desert.

K. Edw. Then, Spencer, wait upon me ; for his sake 250
I'll grace thee with a higher style ere long.

Y. Spen. No greater titles happen unto me,
Than to be favoured of your majesty !

K. Edw. Cousin, this day shall be your marriage-feast.
And, Gaveston, think that I love thee well,
To wed thee to our niece, the only heir
Unto the Earl of Gloucester late deceased.

Gav. I know, my Lord, many will stomach me,
But I respect neither their love nor hate.

K. Edw. The headstrong barons shall not limit me ; 260
He that I list to favour shall be great.
Come, let's away ; and when the marriage ends,
Have at the rebels, and their complices ! [Exeunt.]

SCENE III

Near Tynemouth Castle.

*Enter Kent, Lancaster, Young Mortimer, Warwick,
Pembroke, and others.*

Kent. My lords, of love to this our native land
I come to join with you and leave the king ;
And in your quarrel and the realm's behoof
Will be the first that shall adventure life.

Lan. I fear me, you are sent of policy,
To undermine us with a show of love.

War. He is your brother, therefore have we cause
To cast the worst, and doubt of your revolt.

Kent. Mine honour shall be hostage of my truth :
If that will not suffice, farewell, my lords.

10

Y. Mor. Stay, Edmund ; never was Plantagenet
False of his word, and therefore trust we thee.

Pem. But what's the reason you should leave him now ?

Kent. I have informed the Earl of Lancaster.

Lan. And it sufficeth. Now, my lords, know this,
That Gaveston is secretly arrived,
And here in Tynemouth frolics with the king.
Let us with these our followers scale the walls,
And suddenly surprise them unawares.

Y. Mor. I'll give the onset.

War. And I'll follow thee. 20

Y. Mor. This tottered ensign of my ancestors,
Which swept the desert shore of that dead sea
Whereof we got the name of Mortimer,
Will I advance upon this castle's walls.
Drums, strike alarum, raise them from their sport,
And ring aloud the knell of Gaveston !

Lan. None be so hardy as to touch the king ;
But neither spare you Gaveston nor his friends.

[Exeunt.]

SCENE IV

In Tynemouth Castle

Enter severally King Edward and Young Spencer.

K. Edw. O tell me, Spencer, where is Gaveston ?

Spem. I fear me he is slain, my gracious lord.

K. Edw. No, here he comes ; now let them spoil and kill.

Enter Queen Isabella, King Edward's Niece, Gaveston, and Nobles.

Fly, fly, my lords, the earls have got the hold ;
Take shipping and away to Scarborough ;
Spencer and I will post away by land.

Gav. O stay, my lord, they will not injure you.

K. Edw. I will not trust them ; Gaveston, away !

Gav. Farewell, my lord.

K. Edw. Lady, farewell.

10

Niece. Farewell, sweet uncle, till we meet again.

K. Edw. Farewell, sweet Gaveston ; and farewell, niece.

Q. Isab. No farewell to poor Isabel thy queen ?

K. Edw. Yes, yes, for Mortimer, your lover's sake.

Q. Isab. Heaven can witness I love none but you :

[Exeunt all but Queen Isabella.]

From my embracements thus he breaks away.

O that mine arms could close this isle about,

That I might pull him to me where I would !

Or that these tears, that drizzle from mine eyes,

Had power to mollify his stony heart,

20

That when I had him we might never part.

Enter Lancaster, Warwick, Young Mortimer, and others.
Alarums within.

Lan. I wonder how he scaped !

Y. Mor.

Who's this ? the queen !

Q. Isab. Ay, Mortimer, the miserable queen,
Whose pining heart her inward sighs have blasted,
And body with continual mourning wasted ;
These hands are tired with haling of my lord
From Gaveston, from wicked Gaveston,
And all in vain ; for, when I speak him fair,
He turns away, and smiles upon his minion.

Y. Mor. Cease to lament, and tell us where's the king ?

Q. Isab. What would you with the king ? is't him you seek ?

31

Lan. No, madam, but that cursèd Gaveston.

Far be it from the thought of Lancaster

To offer violence to his sovereign.

We would but rid the realm of Gaveston :

Tell us where he remains, and he shall die.

Q. Isab. He's gone by water unto Scarborough ;

Pursue him quickly, and he cannot scape ;

The king hath left him, and his train is small.

War. Foreslow no time, sweet Lancaster ; let's march.

Y. Mor. How comes it that the king and he is parted ?

Q. Isab. That thus your army, going several ways, 42

Might be of lesser force : and with the power

That he intendeth presently to raise,

Be easily suppressed ; therefore be gone.

Y. Mor. Here in the river rides a Flemish hoy ;

Let's all aboard, and follow him amain.

Lan. The wind that bears him hence will fill our sails :

Come, come aboard, 'tis but an hour's sailing.

Y. Mor. Madam, stay you within this castle here. 50

Q. Isab. No, Mortimer, I'll to my lord the king.

Y. Mor. Nay, rather sail with us to Scarborough.

Q. Isab. You know the king is so suspicious,
As if he hear I have but talked with you,
Mine honour will be called in question ;
And therefore, gentle Mortimer, be gone.

Y. Mor. Madam, I cannot stay to answer you,
But think of Mortimer as he deserves.

[Exeunt all except Queen Isabella.]

Q. Isab. So well hast thou deserved, sweet Mortimer,
As Isabel could live with thee for ever. 60

In vain I look for love at Edward's hand,
Whose eyes are fixed on none but Gaveston,
Yet once more I'll importune him with prayer :
If he be strange and not regard my words,
My son and I will over into France,
And to the king my brother there complain,
How Gaveston hath robbed me of his love :
But yet I hope my sorrows will have end,
And Gaveston this blessed day be slain. [Exit]

SCENE V

The Open Country.

Enter Gaveston, pursued.

Gav. Yet, lusty lords, I have escaped your hands,
Your threats, your larums, and your hot pursuits ;

And though divorcèd from King Edward's eyes,
Yet liveth Pierce of Gaveston unsurprised,
Breathing, in hope (malgrado all your beards,
That muster rebels thus against your king),
To see his royal sovereign once again.

Enter Warwick, Lancaster, Pembroke, Young Mortimer, Soldiers, James, and other Attendants of Pembroke.

War. Upon him, soldiers, take away his weapons.

Y. Mor. Thou proud disturber of thy country's peace,
Corrupter of thy king ; cause of these broils, 10
Base flatterer, yield ! and were it not for shame,
Shame and dishonour to a soldier's name,
Upon my weapon's point here should'st thou fall,
And welter in thy gore.

Lan. Monster of men !

That, like the Greekish strumpet, trained to arms
And bloody wars so many valiant knights ;
Look for no other fortune, wretch, than death !
King Edward is not here to buckler thee.

War. Lancaster, why talk'st thou to the slave ?

Go, soldiers, take him hence, for, by my sword, 20
His head shall off : Gaveston, short warning
Shall serve thy turn : it is our country's cause,
That here severely we will execute
Upon thy person. Hang him at a bough.

Gav. My lord !—

War. Soldiers, have him away ;—

But for thou wert the favourite of a king,
Thou shalt have so much honour at our hands.

Gav. I thank you all, my lords : then I perceive,
That heading is one, and hanging is the other, 30
And death is all.

Enter Arundel.

Lan. How now, my lord of Arundel?

Arun. My lords, King Edward greets you all by me.

War. Arundel, say your message.

Arun. His majesty,
Hearing that you had taken Gaveston,
Entreateth you by me, yet but he may
See him before he dies ; for why, he says,
And sends you word, he knows that die he shall ;
And if you gratify his grace so far,
He will be mindful of the courtesy. 40

War. How now?

Gav. Renownèd Edward, how thy name Revives poor Gaveston !

War. No, it needeth not ;
Arundel, we will gratify the king
In other matters ; he must pardon us in this.
Soldiers, away with him !

Gav. Why, my lord of Warwick,
Will not these delays beget my hopes ?
I know it, lords, it is this life you aim at,
Yet grant King Edward this.

Y. Mor.

Shalt thou appoint

What we shall grant? Soldiers, away with him: 50

Thus we'll gratify the king,

We'll send his head by thee; let him bestow

His tears on that, for that is all he gets

Of Gaveston, or else his senseless trunk.

Lan. Not so, my lords, lest he bestow more cost

In burying him than he hath ever earned.

Arun. My lords, it is his majesty's request,

And in the honour of a king he swears,

He will but talk with him, and send him back.

War. When? can you tell? Arundel, no; we wot, 60

He that the care of his realm remits,

And drives his nobles to these exigents

For Gaveston, will, if he sees him once,

Violate any promise to possess him.

Arun. Then if you will not trust his grace in keep,

My lords, I will be pledge for his return.

Y. Mor. 'Tis honourable in thee to offer this;

But for we know thou art a noble gentleman,

We will not wrong thee so, to make away

A true man for a thief. 70

Gav. How mean'st thou, Mortimer? that is over-base.Y. Mor. Away, base groom, robber of king's renown!

Question with thy companions and mates.

Pem. My Lord Mortimer, and you, my lords, each one,

To gratify the king's request therein,

Touching the sending of this Gaveston,

My house is not far hence ; out of the way 100
A little, but our men shall go along.

We that have pretty wenches to our wives,
Sir, must not come so near to baulk their lips.

Arun. 'Tis very kindly spoke, my lord of Pembroke ;

Your honour hath an adamant of power
To draw a prince.

Pem. So, my lord. Come hither, James :
I do commit this Gaveston to thee,
Be thou this night his keeper ; in the morning
We will discharge thee of thy charge : be gone.

Gav. Unhappy Gaveston, whither goest thou now ? 110

[Exit with James and the other Attendants.]

Horse-boy. My lord, we'll quickly be at Cobham.

[Exeunt.]

ACT THE THIRD

SCENE I

The Open Country.Enter Gaveston mourning, James, and other Attendants of Pembroke.

Gav. O treacherous Warwick! thus to wrong thy friend.

James. I see it is your life these arms pursue.

Gav. Weaponless must I fall, and die in bands?

O! must this day be period of my life?

Centre of all my bliss! An ye be men,

Speed to the king.

Enter Warwick and Soldiers.

War. My lord of Pembroke's men,
Strive you no longer—I will have that Gaveston.

James. Your lordship does dishonour to yourself,
And wrong our lord, your honourable friend.

War. No, James, it is my country's cause I follow. 10
Go, take the villain; soldiers, come away.

We'll make quick work. Commend me to your master,

My friend, and tell him that I watched it well.

Come, let thy shadow parley with King Edward.

Gav. Treacherous earl, shall I not see the king?

War. The King of heaven perhaps, no other king.

Away !

[Exeunt Warwick and Soldiers with Gaveston.]

James. Come, fellows, it booteth not for us to strive,

We will in haste go certify our lord. [Exeunt.]

SCENE II

Near Boroughbridge, in Yorkshire.

Enter King Edward and Young Spencer, Baldock, and Nobles of the King's side, and Soldiers with drums and fifes.

K. Edw. I long to hear an answer from the barons

Touching my friend, my dearest Gaveston.

Ah ! Spencer, not the riches of my realm

Can ransom him ! ah, he is marked to die !

I know the malice of the younger Mortimer,

Warwick I know is rough, and Lancaster

Inexorable, and I shall never see

My lovely Pierce of Gaveston again !

The barons overbear me with their pride.

Y. Spen. Were I King Edward, England's sovereign, to

Son to the lovely Eleanor of Spain,
Great Edward Longshanks' issue, would I bear
These braves, this rage, and suffer uncontrolled
These barons thus to beard me in my land,
In mine own realm? My lord, pardon my speech :
Did you retain your father's magnanimity,
Did you regard the honour of your name,
You would not suffer thus your majesty
Be counterbust of your nobility.
Strike off their heads, and let them preach on poles !
No doubt, such lessons they will teach the rest, 21
As by their preachments they will profit much,
And learn obedience to their lawful king.

K. Edw. Yea, gentle Spencer, we have been too mild,
Too kind to them ; but now have drawn our sword,
And if they send me not my Gaveston,
We'll steel it on their crest, and poll their tops.

Bald. This haught resolve becomes your majesty,
Not to be tied to their affection,
As though your highness were a schoolboy still, 30
And must be awed and governed like a child.

Enter the Elder Spencer, with his truncheon and Soldiers.

E. Spen. Long live my sovereign, the noble Edward—
In peace triumphant, fortunate in wars !

K. Edw. Welcome, old man, com'st thou in Edward's aid ?
Then tell thy prince of whence, and what thou art.

E. Spen. Lo, with a band of bowmen and of pikes,
Brown bills and targeteers, four hundred strong,
Sworn to defend King Edward's royal right,
I come in person to your majesty,
Spencer, the father of Hugh Spencer there, 40
Bound to your highness everlastingly,
For favour done, in him, unto us all.

K. Edw. Thy father, Spencer?

Y. Spen. True, an it like your grace,
That pours, in lieu of all your goodness shown,
His life, my lord, before your princely feet.

K. Edw. Welcome ten thousand times, old man, again.

Spencer, this love, this kindness to thy king,
Argues thy noble mind and disposition.
Spencer, I here create thee Earl of Wiltshire,
And daily will enrich thee with our favour, 50
That, as the sunshine, shall reflect o'er thee.
Beside, the more to manifest our love,
Because we hear Lord Bruce doth sell his land,
And that the Mortimers are in hand withal, Thou shalt have crowns of us t' outbid the barons :

And, Spencer, spare them not, lay it on.
Soldiers, a largess, and thrice welcome all !

Y. Spen. My lord, here comes the queen.

Enter Queen Isabella, Prince Edward, and Levune, a Frenchman.

K. Edw. Madam, what news?

Q. Isab. News of dishonour, lord, and discontent.
Our friend Levune, faithful and full of trust, 60
Informeth us, by letters and by words,
That Lord Valois our brother, King of France,
Because your highness hath been slack in homage,
Hath seizèd Normandy into his hands.
These be the letters, this the messenger

K. Edw. Welcome, Levune. Tush, Sib, if this be all, Valois and I will soon be friends again.—
But to my Gaveston; shall I never see,
Never behold thee now?—Madam, in this matter,
We will employ you and your little son; 70
You shall go parley with the King of France.—
Boy, see you bear you bravely to the king,
And do your message with a majesty.

P. Edw. Commit not to my youth things of more weight
Than fits a prince so young as I to bear,
And fear not, lord and father—heaven's great beams
On Atlas' shoulder shall not lie more safe,
Than shall your charge committed to my trust.

Q. Isab. Ah, boy! this towardness makes thy mother fear

Thou art not marked to many days on earth. 80

K. Edw. Madam, we will that you with speed be shipped,

And this our son ; Levune shall follow you
With all the haste we can despatch him hence.
Choose of our lords to bear you company ;
And go in peace, leave us in wars at home.

Q. Isab. Unnatural wars, where subjects brave their king ;
God end them once ! My lord, I take my leave,
To make my preparation for France.

[Exit with Prince Edward.]

Enter Arundel.

K. Edw. What, Lord Arundel, dost thou come alone ?

Arun. Yea, my good lord, for Gaveston is dead. 90

K. Edw. Ah, traitors ! have they put my friend to death ?

Tell me, Arundel, died he ere thou cam'st,
Or didst thou see my friend to take his death ?

Arun. Neither, my lord ; for as he was surprised,
Begirt with weapons and with enemies round,
I did your highness' message to them all ;
Demanding him of them, entreating rather,
And said, upon the honour of my name,
That I would undertake to carry him
Unto your highness, and to bring him back. 100

K. Edw. And tell me, would the rebels deny me that ?

Y. Spen. Proud recreants !

K. Edw. Yea, Spencer, traitors all.

Arun. I found them at the first inexorable ;
The Earl of Warwick would not bide the hearing,
Mortimer hardly ; Pembroke and Lancaster

Edward the Second

ACT III. SC. 2.

Spake least : and when they flatly had denied,
Refusing to receive me pledge for him,
The Earl of Pembroke mildly thus bespake ;
'My lords, because our sovereign sends for him,
And promiseth he shall be safe returned, 110
I will this undertake, to have him hence,
And see him re-delivered to your hands.'

K. Edw. Well, and how fortunes that he came not ?

Y. Spen. Some treason, or some villainy, was the cause.

Arun. The Earl of Warwick seized him on his way ;
For being delivered unto Pembroke's men,
Their lord rode home thinking his prisoner safe ;
But ere he came, Warwick in ambush lay,
And bare him to his death ; and in a trench
Strake off his head, and marched unto the 120 camp.

Y. Spen. A bloody part, flatly 'gainst law of arms !

K. Edw. O shall I speak, or shall I sigh and die !

Y. Spen. My lord, refer your vengeance to the sword
Upon these barons ; hearten up your men ;
Let them not unrevenged murder your friends !
Advance your standard, Edward, in the field,
And march to fire them from their starting holes.

K. Edw. [kneeling]. By earth, the common mother of us all,

By heaven, and all the moving orbs thereof,
By this right hand, and by my father's sword, 130
And all the honours 'longing to my crown,

I will have heads, and lives for him, as many
As I have manors, castles, towns, and towers !—

[Rises.

Treacherous Warwick ! traitorous Mortimer !

If I be England's king, in lakes of gore

Your headless trunks, your bodies will I trail,

That you may drink your fill, and quaff in blood,

And stain my royal standard with the same,

That so my bloody colours may suggest

Remembrance of revenge immortally

140

On your accursèd traitorous progeny,

You villains, that have slain my Gaveston !

And in this place of honour and of trust,

Spencer, sweet Spencer, I adopt thee here :

And merely of our love we do create thee

Earl of Gloucester, and Lord Chamberlain,

Despite of times, despite of enemies.

Y. Spen. My lord, here's a messenger from the barons Desires access unto your majesty.

K. Edw. Admit him near.

150

Enter the Herald, with his coat of arms.

Her. Long live King Edward, England's lawful lord !

K. Edw. So wish not they, I wis, that sent thee hither.

Thou com'st from Mortimer and his complices,

A ranker rout of rebels never was.

Well, say thy message.

Her. The barons up in arms by me salute

Your highness with long life and happiness ;
And bid me say, as plainer to your grace,
That if without effusion of blood
You will this grief have ease and remedy, 160
That from your princely person you remove
This Spencer, as a putrifying branch,
That deads the royal vine, whose golden leaves
Empale your princely head, your diadem,
Whose brightness such pernicious upstarts dim,
Say they ; and lovingly advise your grace,
To cherish virtue and nobility,
And have old servitors in high esteem,
And shake off smooth dissembling flatterers :
This granted, they, their honours, and their lives, 170

Are to your highness vowed and consecrate.

Y. Spen. Ah, traitors ! will they still display their pride ?

K. Edw. Away, tarry no answer, but be gone !

Rebels, will they appoint their sovereign

His sports, his pleasures, and his company ?

Yet, ere thou go, see how I do divorce

[Embraces Spencer.

Spencer from me.—Now get thee to thy lords,

And tell them I will come to chastise them

For murdering Gaveston ; hie thee, get thee gone !

Edward with fire and sword follows at thy heels. 180

[Exit Herald.

My lord, perceive you how these rebels swell?

Soldiers, good hearts, defend your sovereign's right,
For now, even now, we march to make them stoop.
Away! [Exeunt. Alarums, excursions, a great fight, and a retreat sounded, within.]

SCENE III

The battle-field, Boroughbridge.

Enter King Edward, the Elder Spencer, Young Spencer, and Noblemen of the King's side.

K. Edw. Why do we sound retreat? upon them, lords!
This day I shall pour vengeance with my sword
On those proud rebels that are up in arms,
And do confront and countermand their king.

Y. Spen. I doubt it not, my lord, right will prevail.

E. Spen. 'Tis not amiss, my liege, for either part To breathe awhile; our men, with sweat and dust

All choked well near, begin to faint for heat;
And this retire refresheth horse and man.

Y. Spen. Here come the rebels.

10

*Enter Young Mortimer, Lancaster, Warwick,
Pembroke, and others.*

Y. Mor. Look, Lancaster, yonder is Edward
Among his flatterers.

Lan. And there let him be Till he pay dearly for their company.

War. And shall, or Warwick's sword shall smite in vain.

K. Edw. What, rebels, do you shrink and sound retreat?

Y. Mor. No, Edward, no, thy flatterers faint and fly.

Lan. They'd best betimes forsake thee, and their trains,
For they'll betray thee, traitors as they are.

Y. Spen. Traitor on thy face, rebellious Lancaster!

Pem. Away, base upstart, bravest thou nobles thus? 20

E. Spen. A noble attempt, and honourable deed,
Is it not, trow ye, to assemble aid,
And levy arms against your lawful king!

K. Edw. For which ere long their heads shall satisfy,
To appease the wrath of their offended king.

Y. Mor. Then, Edward, thou wilt fight it to the last,
And rather bathe thy sword in subjects' blood,
Than banish that pernicious company?

K. Edw. Ay, traitors all, rather than thus be braved,
Make England's civil towns huge heaps of stones,
And ploughs to go about our palace-gates. 31

War. A desperate and unnatural resolution!
Alarum!—to the fight!

St. George for England, and the barons' right.

K. Edw. Saint George for England, and King Edward's right.

[Alarums. Excunt the two parties severally]

Re-enter King Edward and his followers, with the Barons and Kent, captives.

K. Edw. Now, lusty lords, now, not by chance of war,
But justice of the quarrel and the cause,
Vailed is your pride; methinks you hang the heads,

But we'll advance them, traitors; now 'tis time
To be avenged on you for all your braves, 40
And for the murder of my dearest friend,
To whom right well you knew our soul was knit,
Good Pierce of Gaveston, my sweet favourite.
Ah, rebels! recreants! you made him away.

Kent. Brother, in regard of thee, and of thy land,
Did they remove that flatterer from thy throne.

K. Edw. So, sir, you have spoke; away, avoid our presence! [Exit Kent.

Accursèd wretches, was't in regard of us,
When we had sent our messenger to request
He might be spared to come to speak with us, 50
And Pembroke undertook for his return,
That thou, proud Warwick, watched the prisoner,
Poor Pierce, and headed him 'gainst law of arms?
For which thy head shall overlook the rest,
As much as thou in rage outwent'st the rest.

War. Tyrant, I scorn thy threats and menaces;
It is but temporal that thou canst inflict.

Lan. The worst is death, and better die to live
Than live in infamy under such a king.

K. Edw. Away with them, my lord of Winchester ! 60
These lusty leaders, Warwick and Lancaster,
I charge you roundly—off with both their heads !
Away !

War. Farewell, vain world.

Lan. Sweet Mortimer, farewell.

Y. Mor. England, unkind to thy nobility,
Groan for this grief, behold how thou art maimed !

K. Edw. Go, take that haughty Mortimer to the Tower,
There see him safe bestowed ; and for the rest,
Do speedy execution on them all.
Begone ! 70

Y. Mor. What, Mortimer ! can ragged stony walls
Immure thy virtue that aspires to heaven ?
No, Edward, England's scourge, it may not be ;
Mortimer's hope surmounts his fortune far.

[The captive Barons are led off.]

K. Edw. Sound drums and trumpets ! March with me, my friends,
Edward this day hath crowned him king anew.

[Exeunt all except Young Spencer, Levune, and Baldock.]

Y. Spen. Levune, the trust that we repose in thee,
Begets the quiet of King Edward's land.
Therefore begone in haste, and with advice
Bestow that treasure on the lords of France, 80

That, therewith all enchanted, like the guard
That suffered Jove to pass in showers of gold
To Danae, all aid may be denied
To Isabel, the queen, that now in France Makes friends, to cross the seas with her young son,

And step into his father's regiment.

Levune. That's it these barons and the subtle queen
Long levelled at.

Bal. Yea, but, Levune, thou seest
These barons lay their heads on blocks together ;
What they intend, the hangman frustrates clean. 90

Levune. Have you no doubt, my lords, I'll clap so close
Among the lords of France with England's gold,
That Isabel shall make her complaints in vain,
And France shall be obdurate with her tears.

Y. Spen. Then make for France, amain — Levune, away !

Proclaim King Edward's wars and victories.

[Exeunt.

ACT THE FOURTH

SCENE I

Near the Tower of London.Enter Kent.

Kent. Fair blows the wind for France ; blow, gentle gale,
Till Edmund be arrived for England's good !
Nature, yield to my country's cause in this.
A brother ? no, a butcher of thy friends !
Proud Edward, dost thou banish me thy presence ?
But I'll to France, and cheer the wrongèd queen,
And certify what Edward's looseness is.
Unnatural king ! to slaughter noblemen
And cherish flatterers ! Mortimer, I stay
Thy sweet escape : stand gracious, gloomy night, io
To his device.

Enter Young Mortimer, disguised.

Y. Mor. Holla ! who walketh there ?
Is't you, my lord ?

Kent. Mortimer, 'tis I ;
But hath thy potion wrought so happily ?

Y. Mor. It hath, my lord ; the warders all asleep,
I thank them, gave me leave to pass in peace.
But hath your grace got shipping unto France?

Kent. Fear it not. [Exeunt.]

SCENE II

Paris.

Enter Queen Isabella and Prince Edward.

Q. Isab. Ah, boy ! our friends do fail us all in France :
The lords are cruel, and the king unkind ;
What shall we do ?

P. Edw. Madam, return to England,
And please my father well, and then a fig
For all my uncle's friendship here in France.
I warrant you, I'll win his highness quickly ;
'A loves me better than a thousand Spencers.

Q. Isab. Ah, boy, thou art deceived, at least in this,
To think that we can yet be tuned together ;
No, no, we jar too far. Unkind Valois ! 10
Unhappy Isabel ! when France rejects,
Whither, oh ! whither dost thou bend thy steps !

Enter Sir John of Hainault.

Sir J. Madam, what cheer ?

Q. Isab. Ah ! good Sir John of Hainault,
Never so cheerless, nor so far distressed.

Sir J. I hear, sweet lady, of the king's unkindness ;

But droop not, madam ; noble minds contemn
Despair : will your grace with me to Hainault,
And there stay time's advantage with your son ?
How say you, my lord, will you go with your friends,
And shake off all our fortunes equally ? 20

P. Edw. So pleaseth the queen, my mother, me it likes ;
The King of England, nor the court of France,
Shall have me from my gracious mother's side,
Till I be strong enough to break a staff ;
And then have at the proudest Spencer's head.

Sir J. Well said, my lord.

Q. Isab. O, my sweet heart, how do I moan thy wrongs,
Yet triumph in the hope of thee, my joy !
Ah, sweet Sir John ! even to the utmost verge
Of Europe, or the shore of Tanais, 30
We will with thee to Hainault—so we will :—
The marquis is a noble gentleman ;
His grace, I dare presume, will welcome me.
But who are these ?

Enter Kent and Young Mortimer.

Kent. Madam, long may you live,
Much happier than your friends in England do !

Q. Isab. Lord Edmund and Lord Mortimer alive !
Welcome to France ! the news was here, my lord,
That you were dead, or very near your death.

Y. Mor. Lady, the last was truest of the twain :
But Mortimer, reserved for better hap, 40

Hath shaken off the thraldom of the Tower,
And lives t' advance your standard, good my lord.

P. Edw. How mean you? and the king, my father, lives!

No, my Lord Mortimer, not I, I trow.

Q. Isab. Not, son! why not? I would it were no worse.

But, gentle lords, friendless we are in France.

Y. Mor. Monsieur le Grand, a noble friend of yours,

Told us, at our arrival, all the news—

How hard the nobles, how unkind the king

Hath showed himself; but, madam, right makes room

Where weapons want; and, though a many friends

Are made away, as Warwick, Lancaster, 52

And others of our party and faction;

Yet have we friends, assure your grace, in England

Would cast up caps, and clap their hands for joy,

To see us there, appointed for our foes.

Kent. Would all were well, and Edward well reclaimed,

For England's honour, peace, and quietness.

Y. Mor. But by the sword, my lord, 't must be deserved;

The king will ne'er forsake his flatterers. 60

Sir J. My lords of England, sith th' ungente king

Of France refuseth to give aid of arms

To this distressed queen his sister here,

Go you with her to Hainault; doubt ye not,

We will find comfort, money, men and friends

Ere long, to bid the English king a base.

How say'st, young prince? what think you of the match?

Edward the Second

ACT IV. SC. 3.

P. Edw. I think King Edward will outrun us all.

Q. Isab. Nay, son, not so ; and you must not discourage
Your friends, that are so forward in your aid. 70

Kent. Sir John of Hainault, pardon us, I pray ;
These comforts that you give our woful queen
Bind us in kindness all at your command.

Q. Isab. Yea, gentle brother ; and the God of heaven Prosper your happy motion, good Sir John.

Y. Mor. This noble gentleman, forward in arms,
Was born, I see, to be our anchor-hold.
Sir John of Hainault, be it thy renown,
That England's queen, and nobles in distress,
Have been by thee restored and comforted. 80

Sir J. Madam, along, and you, my lords, with me,
That England's peers may Hainault's welcome see.
[Exeunt.

SCENE III

The Royal Palace, London.

Enter King Edward, Arundel, the Elder and Younger Spencer, and others.

K. Edw. Thus after many threats of wrathful war, Triumpheth England's Edward with his friends ;
And triumph, Edward, with his friends uncontrolled !
My lord of Gloucester, do you hear the news ?

Y. Spen. What news, my lord?

K. Edw. Why, man, they say there is great execution
Done through the realm ; my lord of Arundel,
You have the note, have you not?

Arun. From the Lieutenant of the Tower, my lord.

K. Edw. I pray let us see it. [Takes the note.] What have we there? 10

Read it, Spencer. [Hands it to Young Spencer, who reads the names.]

Why, so ; they barked apace a month ago :

Now, on my life, they'll neither bark nor bite.

Now, sirs, the news from France? Gloucester, I trow
The lords of France love England's gold so well
As Isabella gets no aid from thence.

What now remains? have you proclaimed, my lord,
Reward for them can bring in Mortimer?

Y. Spen. My lord, we have ; and if he be in England,
'A will be had ere long, I doubt it not. 20

K. Edw. If, dost thou say? Spencer, as true as death,
He is in England's ground ; our portmasters
Are not so careless of their king's command.

Enter a Messenger.

How now, what news with thee? from whence come these?

Mess. Letters, my lord, and tidings forth of France ;—
To you, my lord of Gloucester, from Levune.

[Gives letters to Young Spencer.]

K. Edw. Read.

Y. Spen. [reads].

'My duty to your honour premised, &c., I have, according to instructions in that behalf, dealt with the King of France his lords, and effected, that the queen, all discontented and discomforted, is gone : whither, if you ask, with Sir John of Hainault, brother to the marquis, into Flanders. With them are gone Lord Edmund, and the Lord Mortimer, having in their company divers of your nation, and others ; and, as constant report goeth, they intend to give King Edward battle in England, sooner than he can look for them. This is all the news of import.

Your honour's in all service, LEVUNE.'

K. Edw. Ah, villains ! hath that Mortimer escaped ? 40

With him is Edmund gone associate ?

And will Sir John of Hainault lead the round ?

Welcome, a God's name, madam, and your son ;

England shall welcome you and all your rout.

Gallop apace, bright Phœbus, through the sky,

And dusky night, in rusty iron car,

Between you both shorten the time, I pray,

That I may see that most desired day,

When we may meet these traitors in the field.

Ah, nothing grieves me, but my little boy 50

Is thus misled to countenance their ills.

Come, friends, to Bristow, there to make us strong ;

And, winds, as equal be to bring them in,
As you injurious were to bear them forth ! [Exeunt.]

SCENE IV

Near Harwich.

Enter Queen Isabella, Prince Edward, Kent, Young Mortimer, and Sir John of Hainault.

Q. Isab. Now, lords, our loving friends and countrymen,
Welcome to England all, with prosperous winds !
Our kindest friends in Belgia have we left,
To cope with friends at home ; a heavy case
When force to force is knit, and sword and glaive
In civil broils make kin and countrymen
Slaughter themselves in others, and their sides
With their own weapons gore ! But what's the help ?
Misgoverned kings are cause of all this wreck ;
And, Edward, thou art one among them all, 10
Whose looseness hath betrayed thy land to spoil,
And made the channel overflow with blood
Of thine own people ; patron shouldst thou be,
But thou——

Y. Mor. Nay, madam, if you be a warrior,
You must not grow so passionate in speeches.
Lords,
Sith that we are by sufferance of heaven
Arrived, and armèd in this prince's right,

Edward the Second

ACT IV. SC. 5.

Here for our country's cause swear we to him      20
All homage, fealty, and forwardness ;
And for the open wrongs and injuries
Edward hath done to us, his queen and land,
We come in arms to wreak it with the sword ;
That England's queen in peace may repossess
Her dignities and honours : and withal
We may remove these flatterers from the king,
That havoc England's wealth and treasury.

Sir J. Sound trumpets, my lord, and forward let us march.

Edward will think we come to flatter him.      30

Kent. I would he never had been flattered more !

[Exeunt.]

SCENE V

Near Bristol.

Enter King Edward, Baldock, and Young Spencer.

Y. Spen. Fly, fly, my lord ! the queen is over-strong ;
Her friends do multiply, and yours do fail.

Shape we our course to Ireland, there to breathe.

K. Edw. What ! was I born to fly and run away,
And leave the Mortimers conquerors behind ?

Give me my horse, and let's reinforce our troops :
And in this bed of honour die with fame.

Bald. O no, my lord, this princely resolution
Fits not the time ; away ! we are pursued. [Exeunt.

Enter Kent, with sword and target.

Kent. This way he fled, but I am come too late. 10
Edward, alas ! my heart relents for thee.
Proud traitor, Mortimer, why dost thou chase
Thy lawful king, thy sovereign, with thy sword ?
Vile wretch ! and why hast thou, of all unkind,
Borne arms against thy brother and thy king ?
Rain showers of vengeance on my cursèd head,
Thou God, to whom in justice it belongs
To punish this unnatural revolt !
Edward, this Mortimer aims at thy life !
O fly him, then ! But, Edmund, calm this rage, 20
Dissemble, or thou diest ; for Mortimer
And Isabel do kiss, while they conspire :
And yet she bears a face of love forsooth.
Fie on that love that hatcheth death and hate !
Edmund, away ! Bristow to Longshanks' blood
Is false ; be not found single for suspect :
Proud Mortimer pries near unto thy walks.

Enter Queen Isabella, Prince Edward, Young Mortimer, and Sir John of Hainault.

Q. Isab. Successful battle gives the God of kings
To them that fight in right and fear his wrath.

Since then successfully we have prevailed, 30
Thankèd be heaven's great architect, and you.
Ere farther we proceed, my noble lords,
We here create our well-belovèd son,
Of love and care unto his royal person,
Lord Warden of the realm, and sith the fates
Have made his father so infortunate,
Deal you, my lords, in this, my loving lords,
As to your wisdoms fittest seems in all.

Kent. Madam, without offence, if I may ask,
How will you deal with Edward in his fall? 40

P. Edw. Tell me, good uncle, what Edward do you mean?

Kent. Nephew, your father : I dare not call him king.

Y. Mor. My lord of Kent, what needs these questions?

'Tis not in her controlment, nor in ours,
But as the realm and parliament shall please,
So shall your brother be disposèd of.—
I like not this relenting mood in Edmund.
Madam, 'tis good to look to him betimes.

[Aside to the Queen.

Q. Isab. My lord, the Mayor of Bristow knows our mind.

Y. Mor. Yea, madam, and they scape not easily 50
That fled the field.

Q. Isab. Baldock is with the king.

A goodly chancellor, is he not my lord?

Sir J. So are the Spencers, the father and the son.

Kent. This Edward is the ruin of the realm.

Enter Rice ap Howell, with the Elder Spencer prisoner, and Attendants.

Rice. God save Queen Isabel, and her princely son !
Madam, the mayor and citizens of Bristow,
In sign of love and duty to this presence,
Present by me this traitor to the state,
Spencer, the father to that wanton Spencer,
That, like the lawless Catiline of Rome, 60
Revelled in England's wealth and treasury.

Q. Isab. We thank you all.

Y. Mor. Your loving care in this Deserveth princely favours and rewards.
But where's the king and the other Spencer fled ?

Rice. Spencer the son, created Earl of Gloucester,
Is with that smooth-tongued scholar Baldock gone,
And shipped but late for Ireland with the king.

Y. Mor. Some whirlwind fetch them back or sink them all !— [Aside.

They shall be started thence, I doubt it not.

P. Edw. Shall I not see the king my father yet ? 70

Kent. Unhappy Edward, chased from England's bounds. [Aside.

Sir J. Madam, what resteth, why stand you in a muse ?

Q. Isab. I rue my lord's ill-fortune ; but alas !

Care of my country called me to this war.

Y. Mor. Madam, have done with care and sad complaint ;

Your king hath wronged your country and himself,

And we must seek to right it as we may.

Meanwhile, have hence this rebel to the block.

E. Spen. Rebel is he that fights against the prince ;

So fought not they that fought in Edward's right. So

Y. Mor. Take him away, he prates ;

[Exeunt Attendants with the Elder Spencer.

You, Rice ap Howell,

Shall do good service to her majesty,

Being of countenance in your country here,

To follow these rebellious runagates.

We in meanwhile, madam, must take advice,

How Baldock, Spencer, and their complices,

May in their fall be followed to their end. [Exeunt.

SCENE VI

The Abbey of Neath, Glamorganshire.

Enter the Abbot, Monks, King Edward, Young Spencer, and Baldock (the three latter disguised).

Abbot. Have you no doubt, my lord ; have you no fear ;

As silent and as careful we will be,

To keep your royal person safe with us,

Free from suspect, and fell invasion

Of such as have your majesty in chase,

Yourself, and those your chosen company,

As danger of this stormy time requires.

K. Edw. Father, thy face should harbour no deceit.

O ! hadst thou ever been a king, thy heart,

Pierced deeply with sense of my distress, 10
Could not but take compassion of my state.
Stately and proud, in riches and in train,
Whilom I was, powerful, and full of pomp :
But what is he whom rule and empery
Have not in life or death made miserable?
Come, Spencer ; come, Baldock, come, sit down by me ;

Make trial now of that philosophy,
That in our famous nurseries of arts
Thou suck'dst from Plato and from Aristotle.
Father, this life contemplative is heaven. 20
O that I might this life in quiet lead !
But we, alas ! are chased ; and you, my friends,
Your lives and my dishonour they pursue.
Yet, gentle monks, for treasure, gold nor fee,
Do you betray us and our company.

Monk. Your grace may sit secure, if none but we Do wot of your abode.

Y. Spen. Not one alive, but shrewdly I suspect
A gloomy fellow in a mead below.
'A gave a long look after us, my lord ; 30
And all the land I know is up in arms,
Arms that pursue our lives with deadly hate.

Bald. We were embarked for Ireland, wretched we !
With awkward winds and sore tempests driven
To fall on shore, and here to pine in fear
Of Mortimer and his confederates.

K. Edw. Mortimer ! who talks of Mortimer ?

Who wounds me with the name of Mortimer,
That bloody man ? Good father, on thy lap
Lay I this head, laden with mickle care. 40
O might I never ope these eyes again !
Never again lift up this drooping head !
O never more lift up this dying heart !

Y. Spem. Look up, my lord.—Baldock, this drowsiness
Betides no good ; here even we are betrayed.

Enter, with Welsh hooks, Rice ap Howell, a Mower, and Leicester.

Mow. Upon my life, these be the men ye seek.

Rice. Fellow, enough.—My lord, I pray be short,
A fair commission warrants what we do.

Leices. The queen's commission, urged by Mortimer ;
What cannot gallant Mortimer with the queen ? 50
Alas ! see where he sits, and hopes unseen
To escape their hands that seek to reave his life.
Too true it is, Quem dies vidit veniens superbum,
Hunc dies vidit fugiens jacentem.

But, Leicester, leave to grow so passionate.
Spencer and Baldock, by no other names,
I do arrest you of high treason here.
Stand not on titles, but obey the arrest ;
'Tis in the name of Isabel the queen.

My lord, why droop you thus ? 60

K. Edw. O day the last of all my bliss on earth !

Centre of all misfortune ! O my stars,
Why do you lour unkindly on a king ?
Comes Leicester, then, in Isabella's name
To take my life, my company from me ?
Here, man, rip up this panting breast of mine,
And take my heart in rescue of my friends !

Rice. Away with them !

Y. Spen. It may become thee yet
To let us take our farewell of his grace.

Abbot. My heart with pity earns to see this sight, 70
A king to bear these words and proud commands.

[Aside.

K. Edw. Spencer, ah, sweet Spencer, thus then must we part ?

Y. Spen. We must, my lord, so will the angry heavens.

K. Edw. Nay, so will hell and cruel Mortimer ;
The gentle heavens have not to do in this.

Bald. My lord, it is in vain to grieve or storm.
Here humbly of your grace we take our leaves ;
Our lots are cast ; I fear me, so is thine.

K. Edw. In heaven we may, in earth ne'er shall we meet :

And, Leicester, say, what shall become of us ? 80
Leices. Your majesty must go to Killingworth.

K. Edw. Must ! it is somewhat hard, when kings must go.

Leices. Here is a litter ready for your grace,
That waits your pleasure, and the day grows old.

Rice. As good be gone, as stay and be benighted.

K. Edw. A litter hast thou ? lay me in a hearse,
And to the gates of hell convey me hence ;
Let Pluto's bells ring out my fatal knell,
And hags howl for my death at Charon's shore,
For friends hath Edward none but these and these,
And these must die under a tyrant's sword. 91

Rice. My lord, be going ; care not for these,
For we shall see them shorter by the heads.

K. Edw. Well, that shall be, shall be : part we must !
Sweet Spencer, gentle Baldock, part we must !
Hence feignèd weeds ! unfeignèd are my woes ;
[Throws off his disguise.

Father, farewell ! Leicester, thou stay'st for me,
And go I must. Life, farewell, with my friends.

[Exeunt King Edward and Leicester.

Y. Spen. O ! is he gone ? is noble Edward gone ?
Parted from hence ? never to see us more ? 100
Rent, sphere of heaven ! and, fire, forsake thy orb !

Earth, melt to air ! gone is my sovereign,
Gone, gone, alas ! never to make return.

Bald. Spencer, I see our souls are fleeting hence ;
We are deprived the sunshine of our life :
Make for a new life, man ; throw up thy eyes
And heart and hands to heaven's immortal throne
Pay nature's debt with cheerful countenance ;
Reduce we all our lessons unto this,

ACT THE FIFTH

SCENE I

Kenilworth Castle.Enter King Edward, Leicester, the Bishop of Winchester, and Trussel.

Leices. Be patient, good my lord, cease to lament,
Imagine Killingworth Castle were your court,
And that you lay for pleasure here a space,
Not of compulsion or necessity.

K. Edw. Leicester, if gentle words might comfort me,
Thy speeches long ago had eased my sorrows ;
For kind and loving hast thou always been.
The griefs of private men are soon allayed,
But not of kings. The forest deer, being struck,
Runs to an herb that closeth up the wounds ;      10
But, when the imperial lion's flesh is gored,
He rends and tears it with his wrathful paw,
And highly scorning that the lowly earth
Should drink his blood, mounts up to the air.
And so it fares with me, whose dauntless mind
The ambitious Mortimer would seek to curb,

And that unnatural queen, false Isabel,
That thus hath pent and mewed me in a prison ;
For such outrageous passions cloy my soul,
As with the wings of rancour and disdain 20
Full often am I soaring up to heaven,
To plain me to the gods against them both.
But when I call to mind I am a king,
Methinks I should revenge me of my wrongs,
That Mortimer and Isabel have done.
But what are kings, when regiment is gone,
But perfect shadows in a sunshine day ?
My nobles rule, I bear the name of king ;
I wear the crown, but am controlled by them,
By Mortimer, and my unconstant queen, 30
Who spots my nuptial bed with infamy ;
Whilst I am lodged within this cave of care,
Where sorrow at my elbow still attends,
To company my heart with sad laments,
That bleeds within me for this strange exchange.
But tell me, must I now resign my crown,
To make usurping Mortimer a king ?

B. of Win. Your grace mistakes ; it is for England's good,

And princely Edward's right we crave the crown.

K. Edw. No, 'tis for Mortimer, not Edward's head ; 40
For he's a lamb, encompassèd by wolves,
Which in a moment will abridge his life.
But if proud Mortimer do wear this crown,

Heavens turn it to a blaze of quenchless fire !
Or, like the snaky wreath of Tisiphon,
Engirt the temples of his hateful head ;
So shall not England's vine be perished,
But Edward's name survives, though Edward dies.

Leices. My lord, why waste you thus the time away ?

They stay your answer ; will you yield your crown ? 50

K. Edw. Ah, Leicester, weigh how hardly I can brook

To lose my crown and kingdom without cause ;
To give ambitious Mortimer my right,
That like a mountain overwhelms my bliss,
In which extreme my mind here murdered is.
But what the heavens appoint, I must obey !
Here, take my crown ; the life of Edward too ;

[Taking off the crown.]

Two kings in England cannot reign at once.

But stay awhile, let me be king till night,
That I may gaze upon this glittering crown ; 60
So shall my eyes receive their last content,
My head, the latest honour due to it,
And jointly both yield up their wishèd right.

Continue ever thou celestial sun ;
Let never silent night possess this clime :
Stand still you watches of the element ;
All times and seasons, rest you at a stay,
That Edward may be still fair England's king !
But day's bright beam doth vanish fast away,

And needs I must resign my wishèd crown. 70
Inhuman creatures ! nursed with tiger's milk !
Why gape you for your sovereign's overthrow !
My diadem I mean, and guiltless life.
See, monsters, see, I 'll wear my crown again !
[He puts on the crown.]

What, fear you not the fury of your king ?
But, hapless Edward, thou art fondly led ;
They pass not for thy frowns as late they did,
But seek to make a new-elected king ;
Which fills my mind with strange despairing thoughts,
Which thoughts are martyrèd with endless torments, 80

And in this torment comfort find I none,
But that I feel the crown upon my head ;
And therefore let me wear it yet awhile.

Trus. My lord, the parliament must have present news,
And therefore say, will you resign or no ?

[The King rageth.]

K. Edw. I 'll not resign, not whilst I live.

Traitors, be gone ! and join you with Mortimer !

Elect, conspire, install, do what you will :—

Their blood and yours shall seal these treacheries !

B. of Win. This answer we 'll return, and so farewell. 90

[Going with Trussel.]

Leices. Call them again, my lord, and speak them fair ;
For if they go, the prince shall lose his right.

Edward the Second

ACT V. SC. 1.

K. Edw. Call thou them back, I have no power to speak.

Leices. My lord, the king is willing to resign.

B. of Win. If he be not, let him choose.

K. Edw. O would I might ! but heavens and earth conspire

To make me miserable ! Here receive my crown ;
Receive it ? no, these innocent hands of mine
Shall not be guilty of so foul a crime.

He of you all that most desires my blood, 100

And will be called the murderer of a king,

Take it. What, are you moved ? pity you me ?

Then send for unrelenting Mortimer,

And Isabel, whose eyes, being turned to steel,

Will sooner sparkle fire than shed a tear.

Yet stay, for rather than I'll look on them,

Here, here ! [Gives the crown.

Now, sweet God of heaven,

Make me despise this transitory pomp,

And sit for aye enthronized in heaven !

Come, death, and with thy fingers close my eyes, 110

Or if I live, let me forget myself.

B. of Win. My lord—

K. Edw. Call me not lord ; away—out of my sight :

Ah, pardon me : grief makes me lunatic !

Let not that Mortimer protect my son ;

More safety there is in a tiger's jaws,

Than his embracements. Bear this to the queen,
Wet with my tears, and dried again with sighs ;

[Gives a handkerchief.]

If with the sight thereof she be not moved,
Return it back and dip it in my blood. 120

Commend me to my son, and bid him rule
Better than I. Yet how have I transgressed,
Unless it be with too much clemency ?

Trus. And thus most humbly do we take our leave.

[Exeunt the Bishop of Winchester and Trussel.]

K. Edw. Farewell ; I know the next news that they bring

Will be my death ; and welcome shall it be ;
To wretched men, death is felicity.

Enter Berkeley, who gives a paper to Leicester.

Leices. Another post ! what news brings he.

K. Edw. Such news as I expect—come, Berkeley, come,
And tell thy message to my naked breast. 130

Berk. My lord, think not a thought so villainous
Can harbour in a man of noble birth.
To do your highness service and devoir,
And save you from your foes, Berkeley would die.

Leices. My lord, the council of the queen commands
That I resign my charge.

K. Edw. And who must keep me now ? Must you, my lord ?

Berk. Ay, my most gracious lord—so 'tis decreed.

Edward the Second

ACT V. SC. 2.

K. Edw. [taking the paper.] By Mortimer, whose name is written here !

Well may I rent his name that rends my heart ! 140
[Tears it.]

This poor revenge has something eased my mind.

So may his limbs be torn, as is this paper !

Hear me, immortal Jove, and grant it too !

Berk. Your grace must hence with me to Berkeley straight.

K. Edw. Whither you will ; all places are alike,
And every earth is fit for burial.

Leices. Favour him, my lord, as much as lieth in you.

Berk. Even so betide my soul as I use him.

K. Edw. Mine enemy hath pitied my estate,
And that's the cause that I am now removed. 150

Berk. And thinks your grace that Berkeley will be cruel?

K. Edw. I know not ; but of this am I assured,
That death ends all, and I can die but once.
Leicester, farewell !

Leices. Not yet, my lord ; I'll bear you on your way.
[Exeunt.]

SCENE II

The Royal Palace, London.

Enter Queen Isabella and Young Mortimer.

Y. Mor. Fair Isabel, now have we our desire ;
The proud corrupters of the light-brained king

Have done their homage to the lofty gallows,
And he himself lies in captivity.
Be ruled by me, and we will rule the realm.
In any case take heed of childish fear,
For now we hold an old wolf by the ears,
That, if he slip, will seize upon us both,
And gripe the sorer, being griped himself.
Think therefore, madam, that imports us much 10
To erect your son with all the speed we may,
And that I be protector over him ;
For our behoof, 'twill bear the greater sway
Whenas a king's name shall be under writ.

Q. Isab. Sweet Mortimer, the life of Isabel,
Be thou persuaded that I love thee well,
And therefore, so the prince my son be safe,
Whom I esteem as dear as these mine eyes,
Conclude against his father what thou wilt,
And I myself will willingly subscribe. 20

Y. Mor. First would I hear news he were deposed,
And then let me alone to handle him.

Enter Messenger

Letters ! from whence ?

Mess. From Killingworth, my lord.

Q. Isab. How fares my lord the king ?

Mess. In health, madam, but full of pensiveness.

Q. Isab. Alas, poor soul, would I could ease his grief !

Enter the Bishop of Winchester with the crown.

Thanks, gentle Winchester. [To the Messenger.]

Sirrah, be gone. [Exit Messenger.]

B. of Win. The king hath willingly resigned his crown.

Q. Isab. O happy news ! send for the prince, my son.

B. of Win. Further, or this letter was sealed, Lord Berkeley came, 30

So that he now is gone from Killingworth ;
And we have heard that Edmund laid a plot
To set his brother free ; no more but so.
The lord of Berkeley is so pitiful
As Leicester that had charge of him before.

Q. Isab. Then let some other be his guardian.

Y. Mor. Let me alone, here is the privy seal.

[Exit the Bishop of Winchester.]

Who's there?—Call hither Gurney and Matrevis.

[To Attendants within.]

To dash the heavy-headed Edmund's drift,
Berkeley shall be discharged, the king removed, 40
And none but we shall know where he lieth.

Q. Isab. But, Mortimer, as long as he survives,
What safety rests for us, or for my son ?

Y. Mor. Speak, shall he presently be despatched and die ?

Q. Isab. I would he were, so 'twere not by my means.

Enter Matrevis and Gurney.

Y. Mor. Enough.—

Matrevis, write a letter presently
Unto the lord of Berkeley from ourself
That he resign the king to thee and Gurney ;
And when 'tis done, we will subscribe our name. 50

Mat. It shall be done, my lord. [Writes.]

Y. Mor. Gurney.

Gur. My lord.

Y. Mor. As thou intend'st to rise by Mortimer,
Who now makes Fortune's wheel turn as he please,
Seek all the means thou canst to make him droop,
And neither give him kind word nor good look.

Gur. I warrant you, my lord.

Y. Mor. And this above the rest : because we hear
That Edmund casts to work his liberty,
Remove him still from place to place by night,
Till at the last he come to Killingworth, 60
And then from thence to Berkeley back again ;
And by the way, to make him fret the more,
Speak curstly to him ; and in any case
Let no man comfort him if he chance to weep,
But amplify his grief with bitter words.

Mat. Fear not, my lord, we'll do as you command.

Y. Mor. So now away ; post thitherwards amain.

Q. Isab. Whither goes this letter ? to my lord the king ?
Commend me humbly to his majesty,

Edward the Second

ACT V. SC. 2.

And tell him that I labour all in vain 70
To ease his grief, and work his liberty ;
And bear him this as witness of my love.

[Gives a ring.

Mat. I will, madam. [Exit with Gurney.

Y. Mor. Finely dissembled. Do so still, sweet queen.

Here comes the young prince with the Earl of Kent.

Q. Isab. Something he whispers in his childish ears.

Y. Mor. If he have such access unto the prince,
Our plots and stratagems will soon be dashed.

Q. Isab. Use Edmund friendly as if all were well.

Enter Prince Edward, and Kent talking with him.

Y. Mor. How fares my honourable lord of Kent? 80

Kent. In health, sweet Mortimer : how fares your grace?

Q. Isab. Well, if my lord your brother were enlarged.

Kent. I hear of late he hath deposed himself.

Q. Isab. The more my grief.

Y. Mor. And mine.

Kent. Ah, they do dissemble ! . [Aside.

Q. Isab. Sweet son, come hither, I must talk with thee.

Y. Mor. You being his uncle, and the next of blood,
Do look to be protector o'er the prince.

Kent. Not I, my lord ; who should protect the son, 90
But she that gave him life ? I mean the queen.

P. Edw. Mother, persuade me not to wear the crown :

Let him be king—I am too young to reign.

Q. Isab. But be content, seeing 'tis his highness' pleasure

P. Edw. Let me but see him first, and then I will.

Kent. Ay, do, sweet nephew.

Q. Isab. Brother, you know it is impossible.

P. Edw. Why, is he dead?

Q. Isab. No, God forbid.

Kent. I would those words proceeded from your heart. 100

Y. Mor. Inconstant Edmund, dost thou favour him,

That wast a cause of his imprisonment?

Kent. The more cause have I now to make amends.

Y. Mor. [Aside to Queen Isab.] I tell thee, 'tis not meet that one so false

Should come about the person of a prince.

My lord, he hath betrayed the king his brother,

And therefore trust him not.

P. Edw. But he repents, and sorrows for it now.

Q. Isab. Come, son, and go with this gentle lord and me.

P. Edw. With you I will, but not with Mortimer. 110

Y. Mor. Why, youngling, 'sdain'st thou so of Mortimer?

Then I will carry thee by force away.

P. Edw. Help, uncle Kent! Mortimer will wrong me.

Q. Isab. Brother Edmund, strive not; we' are his friends;

Isabel is nearer than the Earl of Kent.

Kent. Sister, Edward is my charge, redeem him.

Q. Isab. Edward is my son, and I will keep him.

Kent. Mortimer shall know that he hath wrongèd me!—

Hence will I haste to Killingworth Castle,

And rescue aged Edward from his foes, 120
To be revenged on Mortimer and thee.

[Aside. Exeunt on one side Queen Isabella, Prince Edward, and Young Mortimer; on the other, Kent.]

SCENE III

Near Kenilworth Castle.

Enter Matrevis and Gurney and Soldiers, with King Edward.

Mat. My lord, be not pensive, we are your friends ;
Men are ordained to live in misery,
Therefore come,—dalliance dangereth our lives.

K. Edw. Friends, whither must unhappy Edward go ?
Will hateful Mortimer appoint no rest ?
Must I be vexèd like the nightly bird,
Whose sight is loathsome to all wingèd fowls ?
When will the fury of his mind assuage ?
When will his heart be satisfied with blood ?
If mine will serve, unbowel straight this breast, 10
And give my heart to Isabel and him ;
It is the chiefest mark they level at.

Gur. Not so, my liege, the queen hath given this charge
To keep your grace in safety ;
Your passions make your dolours to increase.

K. Edw. This usage makes my misery to increase.

But can my air of life continue long
When all my senses are annoyed with stench?
Within a dungeon England's king is kept,
Where I am starved for want of sustenance. 20
My daily diet is heart-breaking sobs,
That almost rent the closet of my heart ;
Thus lives old Edward not relieved by any,
And so must die, though pitied by many.
O, water, gentle friends, to cool my thirst,
And clear my body from foul excrements !

Mat. Here 's channel water, as your charge is given ;
Sit down, for we'll be barbers to your grace.

K. Edw. Traitors, away ! what, will you murder me,
Or choke your sovereign with puddle water ? 30

Gur. No ; but wash your face, and shave away your beard,

Lest you be known and so be rescued.

Mat. Why strive you thus ? your labour is in vain !

K. Edw. The wren may strive against the lion's strength,
But all in vain : so vainly do I strive
To seek for mercy at a tyrant's hand.

[They wash him with puddle water, and shave off his beard.]

Immortal powers ! that knows the painful cares
That waits upon my poor distressèd soul,
O level all your looks upon these daring men,
That wrongs their liege and sovereign, England's king ! 40

O Gaveston, 'tis for thee that I am wronged,
For me, both thou and both the Spencers died !
And for your sakes a thousand wrongs I'll take.
The Spencers' ghosts, wherever they remain,
Wish well to mine ; then tush, for them I'll die.

Mat. 'Twixt theirs and yours shall be no enmity.
Come, come away ; now put the torches out,
We'll enter in by darkness to Killingworth.

Enter Kent.

Gur. How now, who comes there ?

Mat. Guard the king sure : it is the Earl of Kent. 50

K. Edw. O gentle brother, help to rescue me !

Mat. Keep them asunder ; thrust in the king.

Kent. Soldiers, let me but talk to him one word.

Gur. Lay hands upon the earl for his assault.

Kent. Lay down your weapons, traitors ! yield the king !

Mat. Edmund, yield thou thyself, or thou shalt die.

Kent. Base villains, wherefore do you gripe me thus ?

Gur. Bind him and so convey him to the court.

Kent. Where is the court but here ? here is the king ;
And I will visit him ; why stay you me ? 60

Mat. The court is where Lord Mortimer remains ;
Thither shall your honour go ; and so farewell.

[Exeunt Matrevis and Gurney, with King Edward.]

Kent. O miserable is that commonweal,
Where lords keep courts, and kings are locked in prison !

Sol. Wherefore stay we ! on, sirs, to the court !

Kent. Ay, lead me whither you will, even to my death,
Seeing that my brother cannot be released.

[Exeunt.]

SCENE IV

The Royal Palace, London.

Enter Young Mortimer.

Y. Mor. The king must die, or Mortimer goes down ;
The commons now begin to pity him :
Yet he that is the cause of Edward's death,
Is sure to pay for it when his son's of age ;
And therefore will I do it cunningly.
This letter, written by a friend of ours,
Contains his death, yet bids them save his life.

[Reads.]

'Edwardum occidere nolite timere bonum est

Fear not to kill the king, 'tis good he die.'

But read it thus, and that's another sense :

10

'Edwardum occidere nolite timere bonum est

Kill not the king, 'tis good to fear the worst.'

Unpointed as it is, thus shall it go,

That, being dead, if it chance to be found,

Matrevis and the rest may bear the blame,

And we be quit that caused it to be done.

Edward the Second

ACT V. SC. 4.

Within this room is locked the messenger
That shall convey it, and perform the rest :
And by a secret token that he bears,
Shall he be murdered when the deed is done.— 20
Lightborn, come forth !

Enter Lightborn.

Art thou so resolute as thou wast ?

Light. What else, my lord ? and far more resolute.

Y. Mor. And hast thou cast how to accomplish it ?

Light. Ay, ay, and none shall know which way he died.

Y. Mor. But at his looks, Lightborn, thou wilt relent.

Light. Relent ! ha, ha ! I use much to relent.

Y. Mor. Well, do it bravely, and be secret.

Light. You shall not need to give instructions ;
'Tis not the first time I have killed a man. 30
I learned in Naples how to poison flowers ;
To strangle with a lawn thrust down the throat ;
To pierce the windpipe with a needle's point ;
Or whilst one is asleep, to take a quill
And blow a little powder in his ears :
Or open his mouth and pour quicksilver down.
And yet I have a braver way than these.

Y. Mor. What's that ?

Light. Nay, you shall pardon me ; none shall know my tricks.

Y. Mor. I care not how it is, so it be not spied. 40

Deliver this to Gurney and Matrevis. [Gives letter.
At every ten mile end thou hast a horse.

Take this ; [Gives money] away ! and never see me more.

Light. No !

Y. Mor. No ;

Unless thou bring me news of Edward's death.

Light. That will I quickly do. Farewell, my lord. [Exit.

Y. Mor. The prince I rule, the queen do I command,

And with a lowly congé to the ground,

The proudest lords salute me as I pass ;

50

I seal, I cancel, I do what I will.

Feared am I more than loved ;—let me be feared,

And when I frown, make all the court look pale.

I view the prince with Aristarchus' eyes,

Whose looks were as a breeching to a boy.

They thrust upon me the protectorship,

And sue to me for that that I desire.

While at the council-table, grave enough,

And not unlike a bashful puritan,

First I complain of imbecility,

60

Saying it is onus quam gravissimum ;

Till, being interrupted by my friends,

Suscepi that provinciam as they term it ;

And to conclude, I am Protector now.

Now is all sure : the queen and Mortimer

Shall rule the realm, the king ; and none rules us.

Mine enemies will I plague, my friends advance ;

Edward the Second

ACT V. SC. 4.

And what I list command who dare control?

Major sum quam cui possit fortuna nocere.

And that this be the coronation-day, 70

It pleaseth me, and Isabel the queen.

[Trumpets within.]

The trumpets sound, I must go take my place.

Enter King Edward the Third, Queen Isabella, the Archbishop of Canterbury, Champion and Nobles.

A. of Cant. Long live King Edward, by the grace of God,
King of England and Lord of Ireland!

Cham. If any Christian, Heathen, Turk, or Jew,
Dare but affirm that Edward's not true king,
And will avouch his saying with the sword,
I am the champion that will combat him.

Y. Mor. None comes, sound trumpets. [Trumpets sound.]

K. Edw. Third. Champion, here's to thee.

[Gives a purse.]

Q. Isab. Lord Mortimer, now take him to your charge. 80

Enter Soldiers, with Kent prisoner.

Y. Mor. What traitor have we there with blades and bills?

Sol. Edmund, the Earl of Kent.

K. Edw. Third. What hath he done?

Sol. 'A would have taken the king away perforce,
As we were bringing him to Killingworth.

Y. Mor. Did you attempt his rescue, Edmund? speak.

Kent. Mortimer, I did; he is our king,

And thou compell'st this prince to wear the crown.

Y. Mor. Strike off his head! he shall have martial law.

Kent. Strike off my head! base traitor, I defy thee!

K. Edw. Third. My lord, he is my uncle, and shall live.

Y. Mor. My lord, he is your enemy, and shall die. 91

Kent. Stay, villains!

K. Edw. Third. Sweet mother, if I cannot pardon him,

Entreat my Lord Protector for his life.

Q. Isab. Son, be content; I dare not speak a word.

K. Edw. Third. Nor I, and yet methinks I should command;

But, seeing I cannot, I'll entreat for him—

My lord, if you will let my uncle live,

I will requite it when I come to age.

Y. Mor. 'Tis for your highness' good, and for the realm's.— 100

How often shall I bid you bear him hence?

Kent. Art thou king? must I die at thy command?

Y. Mor. At our command.—Once more away with him.

Kent. Let me but stay and speak; I will not go.

Either my brother or his son is king,

And none of both them thirst for Edmund's blood:

And therefore, soldiers, whither will you hale me?

[Soldiers hale Kent away, to be beheaded.]

K. Edw. Third. What safety may I look for at his hands,

If that my uncle shall be murdered thus?

Edward the Second

ACT V. SC. 5.

Q. Isab. Fear not, sweet boy, I'll guard thee from thy foes ; 110

Had Edmund lived, he would have sought thy death.

Come, son, we'll ride a-hunting in the park.

K. Edw. Third. And shall my uncle Edmund ride with us?

Q. Isab. He is a traitor ; think not on him ; come.
[Exeunt.

SCENE V

Berkeley Castle.

Enter Matrevis and Gurney.

Mat. Gurney, I wonder the king dies not,
Being in a vault up to the knees in water,
To which the channels of the castle run,
From whence a damp continually ariseth,
That were enough to poison any man,
Much more a king brought up so tenderly.

Gur. And so do I, Matrevis : yesternight
I opened but the door to throw him meat,
And I was almost stifled with the savour.

Mat. He hath a body able to endure 10
More than we can inflict : and therefore now
Let us assail his mind another while.

Gur. Send for him out thence, and I will anger him.

Mat. But stay, who's this?

Enter Lightborn.

Light. My Lord Protector greets you. [Gives letter.

Gur. What's here? I know not how to construe it.

Mat. Gurney, it was left unpointed for the nonce;

'Edwardum occidere nolite timere,'

That's his meaning.

Light. Know ye this token? I must have the king. 19

[Gives token.

Mat. Ay, stay awhile, thou shalt have answer straight.

This villain's sent to make away the king. [Aside.

Gur. I thought as much. [Aside.

Mat. And when the murder's done,

See how he must be handled for his labour.

Pereat iste! Let him have the king. [Aside.

What else? here is the key, this is the lake,

Do as you are commanded by my lord.

Light. I know what I must do. Get you away.

Yet be not far off, I shall need your help;

See that in the next room I have a fire,

And get me a spit, and let it be red-hot. 30

Mat. Very well.

Gur. Need you anything besides?

Light. What else? A table and a feather-bed.

Gur. That's all?

Edward the Second

ACT V. SC. 5.

Light. Ay, ay ; so, when I call you, bring it in.

Mat. Fear not thou that.

Gur. Here's a light, to go into the dungeon.

[Gives a light, and then exit with Matrevis.]

Light. So now

Must I about this gear ; ne'er was there any

So finely handled as this king shall be.

Foh, here's a place indeed, with all my heart ! 40

K. Edw. Who's there ? what light is that ? wherefore com'st thou ?

Light. To comfort you, and bring you joyful news.

K. Edw. Small comfort finds poor Edward in thy looks.

Villain, I know thou com'st to murder me.

Light. To murder you, my most gracious lord !

Far is it from my heart to do you harm.

The queen sent me to see how you were used,

For she relents at this your misery :

And what eyes can refrain from shedding tears,

To see a king in this most piteous state ? 50

K. Edw. Weep'st thou already ? list awhile to me

And then thy heart, were it as Gurney's is,

Or as Matrevis', hewn from the Caucasus,

Yet will it melt, ere I have done my tale.

This dungeon where they keep me is the sink

Wherein the filth of all the castle falls.

Light. O villains !

K. Edw. And there in mire and puddle have I stood

This ten days' space ; and, lest that I should sleep,

One plays continually upon a drum. 60
They give me bread and water, being a king ;
So that, for want of sleep and sustenance,
My mind's distempered, and my body's numbed,
And whether I have limbs or no I know not.
O, would my blood dropped out from every vein,
As doth this water from my tattered robes.
Tell Isabel, the queen, I looked not thus,
When for her sake I ran at tilt in France,
And there unhorsed the Duke of Cleremont.

Light. O speak no more, my lord ! this breaks my heart.
Lie on this bed, and rest yourself awhile. 71

K. Edw. These looks of thine can harbour nought but death :

I see my tragedy written in thy brows.
Yet stay ; awhile forbear thy bloody hand,
And let me see the stroke before it comes,
That even then when I shall lose my life,
My mind may be more steadfast on my God.

Light. What means your highness to mistrust me thus ?

K. Edw. What mean'st thou to dissemble with me thus ?

Light. These hands were never stained with innocent blood, 80

Nor shall they now be tainted with a king's.

K. Edw. Forgive my thought for having such a thought.
One jewel have I left ; receive thou this.

[Giving jewel.]

Still fear I, and I know not what's the cause,

Edward the Second

ACT V. SC. 5.

But every joint shakes as I give it thee.

O, if thou harbourest murder in thy heart,

Let this gift change thy mind, and save thy soul !

Know that I am a king : O, at that name

I feel a hell of grief ! where is my crown ?

Gone, gone ! and do I remain alive ? 90

Light. You're overwatched, my lord ; lie down and rest.

K. Edw. But that grief keeps me waking, I should sleep ;

For not these ten days have these eyes' lids closed.

Now as I speak they fall, and yet with fear

Open again. O wherefore sitt'st thou here ?

Light. If you mistrust me, I'll begone, my lord.

K. Edw. No, no, for if thou mean'st to murder me,

Thou wilt return again, and therefore stay. [Sleeps.

Light. He sleeps.

K. Edw. [waking]. O let me not die yet : stay, O stay a while ! 100

Light. How now, my lord ?

K. Edw. Something still buzzeth in mine ears,

And tells me if I sleep I never wake ;

This fear is that which makes me tremble thus ;

And therefore tell me, wherefore art thou come ?

Light. To rid thee of thy life.—Matrevis, come !

Enter Matrevis and Gurney.

K. Edw. I am too weak and feeble to resist :

Assist me, sweet God, and receive my soul !

Light. Run for the table.

K. Edw. O spare me, or despatch me in a trice. 110

[Matrevis brings in a table.]

Light. So, lay the table down, and stamp on it,
But not too hard, lest that you bruise his body.

[King Edward is murdered.]

Mat. I fear me that this cry will raise the town,
And therefore let us take horse and away.

Light. Tell me, sirs, was it not bravely done?

Gur. Excellent well : take this for thy reward.

[Gurney stabs Lightborn, who dies]

Come, let us cast the body in the moat,
And bear the king's to Mortimer our lord :

Away ! [Exeunt with the bodies]

SCENE VI

The Royal Palace, London.

Enter Young Mortimer and Matrevis.

Y. Mor. Is't done, Matrevis, and the murderer dead?

Mat. Ay, my good lord ; I would it were undone !

Y. Mor. Matrevis, if thou now grow'st penitent
I'll be thy ghostly father ; therefore choose,
Whether thou wilt be secret in this,
Or else die by the hand of Mortimer.

Mat. Gurney, my lord, is fled, and will, I fear,
Betray us both, therefore let me fly.

Edward the Second

ACT V. SC. 6.

Y. Mor. Fly to the savages !

Mat. I humbly thank your honour. [Exit. 10

Y. Mor. As for myself, I stand as Jove's huge tree,
And others are but shrubs compared to me.
All tremble at my name, and I fear none ;
Let's see who dare impeach me for his death !

Enter Queen Isabella.

Q. Isab. Ah, Mortimer, the king my son hath news
His father's dead, and we have murdered him !

Y. Mor. What if he have ? the king is yet a child.

Q. Isab. Ay, but he tears his hair, and wrings his hands,
And vows to be revenged upon us both.
Into the council-chamber he is gone, 20
To crave the aid and succour of his peers.
Ay me ! see where he comes, and they with him ;
Now, Mortimer, begins our tragedy.

Enter King Edward the Third, Lords, and Attendants.

1st Lord. Fear not, my lord, know that you are a king.

K. Edw. Third. Villain !—

Y. Mor. Ho, now, my lord !

K. Edw. Third. Think not that I am frighted with thy words !

My father's murdered through thy treachery ;
And thou shalt die, and on his mournful hearse
Thy hateful and accursèd head shall lie, 30

To witness to the world that by thy means
His kingly body was too soon interred.

Q. Isab. Weep not, sweet son !

K. Edw. Third. Forbid me not to weep ; he was my father ;

And, had you loved him half so well as I,
You could not bear his death thus patiently.
But you, I fear, conspired with Mortimer.

1st. Lord. Why speak you not unto my lord the king ?

Y. Mor. Because I think it scorn to be accused.

Who is the man dares say I murdered him ? 40

K. Edw. Third. Traitor ! in me my loving father speaks,

And plainly saith, 'twas thou that murder'dst him.

Y. Mor. But has your grace no other proof than this ?

K. Edw. Third. Yes, if this be the hand of Mortimer.

[Showing letter.

Y. Mor. False Gurney hath betrayed me and himself.

[Aside.

Q. Isab. I feared as much ; murder cannot be hid.

[Aside.

Y. Mor. It is my hand ; what gather you by this ?

K. Edw. Third. That thither thou didst send a murderer.

Y. Mor. What murderer ? Bring forth the man I sent.

K. Edw. Third. Ah, Mortimer, thou knowest that he is slain ; 50

And so shalt thou be too—Why stays he here,
Bring him unto a hurdle, drag him forth ;

Hang him, I say, and set his quarters up ;

But bring his head back presently to me.

Q. Isab. For my sake, sweet son, pity Mortimer.

Y. Mor. Madam, entreat not, I will rather die,

Than sue for life unto a paltry boy.

K. Edw. Third. Hence with the traitor ! with the murderer !

Y. Mor. Base Fortune, now I see, that in thy wheel

There is a point, to which when men aspire, 60

They tumble headlong down : that point I touched,

And, seeing there was no place to mount up higher,

Why should I grieve at my declining fall?—

Farewell, fair queen ; weep not for Mortimer,

That scorns the world, and, as a traveller,

Goes to discover countries yet unknown.

K. Edw. Third. What ! suffer you the traitor to delay ?

[Young Mortimer is taken away by 1st Lord and Attendants.]

Q. Isab. As thou receivedest thy life from me,

Spill not the blood of gentle Mortimer !

K. Edw. Third. This argues that you spilt my father's blood, 70

Else would you not entreat for Mortimer.

Q. Isab. I spill his blood ? no.

K. Edw. Third. Ay, madam, you ; for so the rumour runs.

Q. Isab. That rumour is untrue ; for loving thee,

Is this report raised on poor Isabel.

K. Edw. Third. I do not think her so unnatural.

2nd Lord. My lord, I fear me it will prove too true.

K. Edw. Third. Mother, you are suspected for his death,
 And therefore we commit you to the Tower
 Till farther trial may be made thereof ; 80
 If you be guilty, though I be your son,
 Think not to find me slack or pitiful.

Q. Isab. Nay, to my death, for too long have I lived,
 Whenas my son thinks to abridge my days.

K. Edw. Third. Away with her, her words enforce these tears,
 And I shall pity her if she speak again.

Q. Isab. Shall I not mourn for my belovèd lord,
 And with the rest accompany him to his grave ?

2nd Lord. Thus, madam, 'tis the king's will you shall hence.

Q. Isab. He hath forgotten me ; stay, I am his mother. 90

2nd Lord. That boots not ; therefore, gentle madam, go.

Q. Isab. Then come, sweet death, and rid me of this grief. [Exit.

Re-enter 1st Lord, with the head of Young Mortimer.

1st Lord. My lord, here is the head of Mortimer.

K. Edw. Third. Go fetch my father's hearse, where it shall lie ;

And bring my funeral robes. [Exeunt Attendants.
 Accursèd head,

Could I have ruled thee then, as I do now,

Edward the Second

ACT V. SC. 6.

Thou had'st not hatched this monstrous treachery!—
Here comes the hearse ; help me to mourn, my lords.

Re-enter Attendants with the hearse and funeral robes.

Sweet father, here unto thy murdered ghost      100
I offer up this wicked traitor's head ;
And let these tears, distilling from mine eyes,
Be witness of my grief and innocence.      [Exeunt.

 SURE, affianced; I. iv. 379.
Suscipere provinciam, to undertake an office; v. iv. 63.

I. iv. The locality is indicated by I. ii. 74, 75 ('at the New Temple').

I. iv. 13. Quam male conveniunt. Apparently the allusion is to Ovid's Metamorphoses, ii. 846, 847:

*Non bene conveniunt, nec in una sede morantur,
Majestas et amor.*

I. iv. 29. Hardly . . . a gentleman by birth; Gaveston was the son of a Gascon knight.

I. iv. 76, 77. Cf. Titus Andronicus, II. i. 71, 72:

'I care not, I, knew she and all the world,
I love Lavinia more than all the world.'

I. iv. 136. Drops, there drops; intransitive: 'Each time, my lord, I look at you I shed a tear.' Dyce read 'my love drops.'

I. iv. 362. Deserves. Numerous cases will be noticed in this play, as in Shakespeare's works, of the occurrence of (an apparently singular) verb after a plural subject. The phenomenon is variously explained. Sometimes I should say that the verb is really a singular, e.g. where the subject is singular in sense, though not in inflexion; or again where there are two subjects and the one nearer to the verb is singular; but in an instance like the present (I. iv. 362), and in the majority of instances (cf. v. iii. 37, 38, 40), it seems best to regard the verb as a plural with the inflexion -s which belonged to the plural of the present indicative of the northern dialect of English. Similarly in Shakespeare we get -en, the plural inflexion of the present tense in the midland dialect (cf. waxen=they increase), and th, the southern inflexion (cf. hath and doth found after plural subjects in the first folio of Shakespeare, but commonly altered in modern texts).

I. iv. 408. Cf. 2 Henry VI., I. iii. 83: 'She bears a duke's revenues on her back.' The saying was perhaps proverbial; we have a similar thought in Henry VIII., I. i. 84, 85. There are numerous similarities of diction between Marlowe's plays and the three parts of Henry VI. which support the view that he was in some way connected with the latter ; as also with the two plays of The Contention and The True Tragedie, from which Parts II. and III. of Henry VI. appear to have been recast. In Titus Andronicus again there are echoes of Marlowe.

II. i. 54. Quandoquidem, seeing that ; a satirical glance back at Baldock's first speech (Line 2). In spite of his disclaimer in Lines 52, 53, he is apt (Spencer hints) to give his reasons.

II. ii. 23. Pliny reports. The allusion is not clear. Pliny's account—Natural History, ix. 19—of the exocoetus or flying fish does not correspond with the description here. Mr. Tancock aptly suggests that Marlowe had only a vague recollection of the passage in Pliny, and was rather thinking of some 'traveller's tale' of the flying fish, such as might be found in Hakluyt's Voyages.

II. ii. 162, 166. In 1315 the O'Neills invited Edward Bruce from Scotland ; he defeated the English colonists, was assisted by his brother Robert Bruce and crowned king, and not vanquished till 1318. For some time after the country remained in a state of anarchy.

II. ii. 164. The invasion took place in 1318.

II. ii. 166. Cf. 3 Henry VI., i. i. 239 : 'Stern Falconbridge commands the narrow seas.'

II. ii. 187-193. This jig ; taken from Fabyan's Chronicle.

II. ii. 194. Wigmore, i.e. his property of that name, in Herefordshire. Cf. Drayton's Heroical Epistles ('Mortimer to Queen Isabel') :

'Nor shall a Spenser, be he ne'er so great,
Possess our Wigmore, our renowned seat.'

Fly, be disposed of at once, so as to raise a ransom.

II. ii. 237. Let them go, i.e. enough of, let us trouble no further about them.

II. iii. 21-23. Cunningham says :—'In all Latin deeds the Mortimers are called "de Mortuo mari"; i.e. as though they had been Crusaders whose name was derived from the Dead Sea. Drayton refers to the tradition in 'Mortimer to Queen Isabel,' Heroical Epistles:

'The Dead Sea . . .

From whose vast depth we first derived our name.'

Really the name was of French origin.

II. v. 15. Referring, of course, to Helen of Troy.

II. v. 28. So much honour, i.e. of being beheaded as a nobleman and soldier, not hanged like a felon. It looks as if some words in which Warwick said that Gaveston deserved hanging, but should meet with the more honourable death, had dropped out.

II. v. 47. The line, if genuine, must be ironical; probably it is corrupt, both sense and metre being unsatisfactory. Dyce reads: 'Will now these short delays beget my hopes?' without any great gain in respect of meaning.

II. v. 63. Sees; the Quartos have seize; the emendation (Cunningham's) gives admirable sense.

III. ii. 34, 35. As one of the great barons, the elder Spencer was, of course, well known to the King.

III. iii. Enter King Edward. Edward was not present at the battle of Boroughbridge, fought March 16, 1322, and won for him by Sir Andrew Harclay.

III. iii. 61. Warwick and Lancaster. In reality Warwick had been dead seven years, but dramatic effect demanded that he should suffer thus at Edward's hands for the death of Gaveston. Lancaster was beheaded at Pomfret Castle a few days after the battle.

III. iii. 89. Lay their heads together; said in grim jesting.

IV. iii. 6, 7. There is great execution done; meaning that many of the barons who supported Lancaster have been put to death. The 'note' (8) is the list of their names.

IV. iii. 45, 46. Lines which lived in Shakespeare's memory ; cf. Romeo and Juliet, III. ii. 1-4 :

'Gallop apace, you fiery-footed steeds,
Towards Phœbus' lodging : such a waggoner
As Phæthon would whip you to the west,
And bring in cloudy night immediately.'

IV. iii. 52. Bristow, Bristol.

IV. v. 54. This Edward. We must remember that Edmund had determined to 'dissemble' (21). Dyce needlessly transferred the line to young Mortimer.

IV. vi. 53, 54. A quotation from the Thyestes (613, 614) of Seneca.

IV. vi. 81. Killingworth ; this is Holinshed's spelling of Kenilworth.

IV. vi. 90. But these, the Abbot and Monks ; and these, Spencer and Baldock, to whom the next line also refers. Dyce suggested :

'For friends hath hapless Edward none but these,
And these must die.'

IV. vi. 96. I find almost the same line in Peele's Edward I. (Dyce's Greene and Peele, p. 413) : 'Hence, feigned weeds ! unfeigned is my grief.' Edward I., printed 1593, is commonly held to have preceded Edward II. In the main it was Peele who borrowed from Marlowe ; but that the position was sometimes reversed is shown by comparison of the The Jew of Malta, III. ii. 33, with Peele's early piece, The Arraignment of Paris, III. i. 115.

V. i. 10. An herb, i.e. dittany, the virtue of which is mentioned by Virgil, Æneid, xii. 411-415.

V. ii. 7. An allusion to the proverb, τὸν λύκον τῶν ὥτων ἔχω ; here 'the wolf' means England.

V. iii. 23. Old Edward : Holinshed and Stow speak of Edward as 'the old King,' though he was but forty-three at the time of his death. Cf. 'aged Edward,' v. ii. 23.

v. iv. 8. The poet found this ambiguous line in Holinshed.

v. iv. 54. Aristarchus; the great Alexandrian critic who lived in the second century B.C. From his fame and critical severity, the name became synonymous with 'a harsh critic.'

v. iv. 69. Ovid, Metamorphoses, vi. 195.

v. v. 25. The lake; i.e. the moat outside the dungeon in which the King was confined; cf. Line 117. Mr. Bullen suggests lock; cf. 'here is the key.'

v. v. 41-44. Cf. the death-scene in 3 Henry VI., v. vi. 29-33.

v. v. 71. This bed. See 32: 'It was no doubt thrust upon the stage from the wing after the exit of Gurney and Matrevis.'—Dyce.

v. v. 90. This is the reading of the Quarto of 1598. The later Quartos omit alive, and the omission improves somewhat the effectiveness of the line, which might be scanned,

'Gone, / gone! / and / do I remain?'

The want of a syllable in the third foot after two very emphatic feet would be not irregular.

v. v. 100. So Mr. Bullen arranges; substantially it is the reading of the Quartos of 1598 and 1612, except that their punctuation makes 'yet' qualify 'stay.'

v. v. 113. This cry. Editors have not, I believe, noticed what seems to me a probable allusion to this scene in Peele's Honour of the Garter (1593), which has the lines:

'And Mortimer, a gentle, trusty lord,
More loyal than that cruel Mortimer
That plotted Edward's death at Killingworth,
Edward the Second, father to this king,
Whose tragic cry even now methinks I hear,
When graceless wretches murdered him by night.'

Edward the Second

NOTES

By a slip of memory Peele places the death at 'Killingworth' (see note on IV. vi. 81) instead of Berkeley. The prologue of the Honour of the Garter contains the well-known mention of Marlowe by name.

v. vi. 92. The Queen 'was made to surrender the enormous possessions which she had taken, was allowed three thousand pounds a year, and was sent to live in retirement at Castle Rising in Norfolk.'—Tancock. She died thirty years later.
